Older Than That.

Pie-Eating Prisoners.

More Pay? Terrible.

AT Sunset last night, Rosh Hashanah began, ushering in year number 5687 since the creation of the world, according to Jewish teaching. The Christian religion adopts the old Jewish calculation. Christians and Jews know that the earth is much more than five hundred million years old, that men have been building cities, and killing each other on it for a great deal more than six thousand years. The old figures are preserved for the sake of sentiment.

THE Jewish people have moved about, like Celts, Normans, Danes and others, and have not dwindled. In New York City alone are at least 1,500,000 Jews, more than five times as many as existed in the days when David conquered and occupied the "mountain fortress of Jerusalem." (See the second book of Samuel.)

TO treat prisoners cruel is vile. To make a joke of their crimes is stupid. The governor of New York should tell [illegible]als of Sing Sing what he thinks of their Labor Day pie-eating contest. 12 convicts with their hands [illegible]ind their backs, eating pies, like swine, for a $5 prize.

How does that im[illegible] and women, out of prison, [illegible]uy food for their children

HOWEVER, stupid as with pie-eating contests, [illegible]as the prison of that good bishop, in which prisoners wore iron collars, with sharp spikes turned inward, so they could not lie down to sleep, or the Spanish prison in which the noble-hearted English prison reformer found a man fastened to the wall, his feet above ground, starving "his face clotted with blood and tears," or the prison mines, in which Peter the Great chained each prisoner to his wheelbarrow, to stay chained night and day until death released him; better than the ancient galley, where the man chained to the oar was released when he fainted or died, his hand cut off to save time, body thrown overboard and another slave chained in his place.

We are sentimental fools in our prisons, but we have improved.

THE stock market opened cheerful after Labor day. But with one crumpled rose leaf in the bed of high finance. It "fears that agitation for better wages among railroad employees may be successful." It might even "add one hundred million dollars a year to the railroad payroll. The present prosperity of the railroads will probably force the granting of something.'

WOULDN'T that me too had? Men that owned railroad stocks, and never do, never did, never will do any hard work, think it sad that the men working on the railroads should get one hundred million dollars more a year. That would be a great deal less than 30 cents a day average for each man.

RIGHT LEG AMPUTATED AFTER HE IS RUN DOWN NEAR POTTERY PLANT

Chester Man is Fatally Injured on Grade Crossing at Foot of College Street.

FAILED TO SEE SWITCH ENGINE

Funeral Services Will be Held in Church of Nazarene Sunday Afternoon.

Thomas Durbin, 42, of Chester, superintendent of the decorating department at the C. C. Thompson pottery, where he had been employed for 26 years, died in the City hospital at 11:30 o'clock last night from shock, superinduced by the amputation of his right leg after he was run down by a freight train at the College street crossing yesterday afternoon.

Awaits Passing of Train.

Durbin, who resided in Indiana avenue, Chester, was returning to the pottery from dinner, when the accident occurred. At the C. & P. railroad crossing, a short distance from the pottery, Durbin stopped to await for an eastbound freight train to pass. Another string of cars was standing on the adjoining tracks.

After the train had passed Durbin, it is said, started across the tracks in back of the string of cars. Just as he reached the tracks, a switching engine coupled the string of cars and Durbin was thrown beneath the wheels of a box car. A brakeman heard Durbin's cries for help signaled for the engineer to stop the train. One set of trucks had passed over the victim's right leg, almost completely severing it just above the knee.

An unidentified expressman, who is believed to have been the only eyewitness to the accident, hurried into the Thompson pottery office and asked that an ambulance be called. Both Sturgis and Miller ambulances responded and the victim was taken to the hospital in the latter machine.

Leg Is Amputated.

The leg, which was badly mangled, was amputated by Drs. W. A. Hobbs of this city and J. L. Pyle of Chester.

Durbin came to Chester at the age of 16 years when he entered the employment of the Thompson pottery. He was active in church work, being president of the Chester mission, Virginia avenue, from 1906 to 1915. He was also a trustee of the East Liverpool Church of the Nazarene and superintendent of the Sunday school. He was also a trustee in the Hollow Rock camp meeting association.

Besides his widow, he leaves two children, Lloyd and Lois Durbin, both at home. His mother, Mrs. Margaret Durbin, of Chester, and three brothers and one sister, Joseph Durbin, Steubenville; Elmer A. and Earl E. Durbin and Mrs. John E. Allison, all of Chester, also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted in the East Liverpool Church of the Nazarene, Lincoln and St. Clair avenues at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. O. L. Benedum, pastor, and Rev. B. H. Pocock of the Chester Church of the Nazarene assisted by other ministers will be in charge.

The body will be taken to Salineville where burial will be made in Woodlawn cemetery.

Mother Pinches Baby and Outwits Armed, Masked Man

CORNING, O., Sept. 9.—Awakening shortly after midnight, to find a masked man covering her with a revolver, and threatening her life if she made an outcry, Mrs. W. P. Shaw pinched her baby which lay beside her asleep. The baby cried. She begged the bandit to permit her to get out of bed and put it in its crib across the room.

The bandit growlingly consented. She jumped from a window and ran to the home of a neighbor, where, after telling her story, she fainted, still holding the crying babe.

Sheriff McNabb is still searching for the man.

CARL STUDER ARRESTED IN CANTON QUIZ

Any Illicit Business on Stand in Lengel Trial.

HINT NEW COUNT

Unexpected Turn in Mellett Assassination Aftermath.

CANTON, O., Sept. 9.—Carl Studer, now free on bond on a federal charge of liquor conspiracy, was arrested today for keeping a house of ill fame as he left the witness chair in the hearing before the Canton civil service commission of ousted Police Chief Seranus A. Lengel.

This was immediately after he had emphatically declared that he was never connected with illegitimate business in any way.

Attorney Oscar Abt, assisting in prosecuting the charges against Lengel, indicated that a perjury charge might follow against Studer.

Studer, with somewhat of an air of braggadocio, admitted his business partnership with Louis Mazer, now under indictment for first degree murder in connection with the Don R. Mellett assassination.

"We ran a pool room," Studer said.

Studer offered an explanation of his whereabouts on the night of the Mellett murder, declaring that he was with a friend and at home later in the night.

He denied that he had at any time sent Mazer money by telegraph to Detroit for a liquor transaction.

Admits Telling Many Things.

Studer admitted that he had associated with bootleggers and known law violators, naming among them one Hyman Darling of Pittsburgh, now under a penitentiary sentence for bootlegging.

MT. UNION MAN IS DROWNED IN COUNTY LAKE WHILE BATHING

Placentia, Near North Georgetown, Claims R. L. Maxwell.

VICTIM IS 20

Washington, Pa., Student Meets Death After Enrollment.

Robert L. Maxwell, 20, of Washington, Pa., a Mt. Union college student, was drowned while bathing in Lake Placentia, near North Georgetown, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His body was recovered an hour later but efforts to revive him with the use of a pulmotor, rushed from Alliance, 15 miles away, were futile.

Maxwell and three companions drove to Alliance from Washington, Pa., yesterday to enroll in Mt. Union college which opens for the fall term next week. Enroute home they stopped at Lake Placentia.

Maxwell, it is said, was unable to swim and waded out in the lake before he realized the depth of the water. His companions heard him struggling in the water but when they looked around he had disappeared.

A call was sent to the Alliance fire department and firemen, who brought the pulmotor, recovered the body with grappling hooks.

The body was removed to the Stark undertaking establishment in Salem, last night and was shipped today to Washington.

William Erlanger Recalls Days of Oil Lamp In City

Pioneer Clothier, Celebrating Forty-sixth Anniversary in Business, Came Here When Paved Streets Were Uncommon.

Forty-sixth anniversary of the William Erlanger Company store, founded when the Ceramic city had a population of 3,500, will be celebrated this month.

William Erlanger, Sr., a native of Fuerth, Bavaria, came here in August, 1880, and opened a men's clothing store in a structure at the corner of Fifth street and Broadway, known as the Knowles building. The store, known as "The Philadelphia Branch Clothing House," occupied the first and second floors. In the basement was an ice cream parlor and lunch room conducted by Frank Stone.

Most of the business of the town was centered on Second street and lower Broadway. Few streets were paved. The Erlanger store was situated in what was commonly termed the "hill district."

Canvas awnings, Mr. Erlanger recalls, were unknown and the popular method of protecting merchandise from the sun's rays was by wooden awnings. During election campaigns, the wooden awning in front of Erlanger's store was frequently decorated with Japanese lanterns, while big parades, in which green and red lights were burned, were staged by the populace.

William Brunt First Customer.

The Erlanger store was heated with a large coal stove. The light was furnished by oil lamps, about 40 of which were suspended on chandeliers from the ceiling. Two arm fixtures fitted with lamps were used for the show windows. These lamps were filled and cleaned every other day.

Isaac Knowles, owner of the building, took especial interest in Erlanger's store and introduced the proprietor to many of his friends. Among these were William Brunt, Sr., whose residence was located on the present site of the postoffice. Mr. Brunt was the store's first customer, having purchased a pair of striped worsted trousers for $4.75, Mr. Erlanger remembers.

Business at that time was conducted along lines of barter and trade, but Mr. Erlanger resolved to operate a

W. C. T. U. CALLS FOR SEVERE PENALTIES FOR DRUNKEN DRIVERS AND HITS SMOKING BY TEACHERS

Stiff fines for automobile drivers convicted on charges of operating a motor vehicle while drinking intoxicating liquors and opposition to the employment of teachers in the public schools who smoke cigarettes is voiced in resolutions adopted by members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at their county convention in Wellsville, it was announced today.

The resolutions, drafted by a committee consisting of Mrs. Margaret Moore, East Liverpool; Mrs. Susie Bough, West Point, and Mrs. Margaret Bricker, Lisbon, also urge the adoption of legislation for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools, recommended "an aggressive constructive effort to preserve the sancity of the Lord's day' and pledge the support of the organization to public officials entrusted with the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

Here are the resolutions passed by a unanimous vote by members of the association:

Preamble.

"We, the women of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the 36th annual convention assembled, reverently acknowledge the triumphant leadership of God through the past year and consecrate ourselves anew to the greater task ahead—law enforcement.

"First—We call the attention of the public officials that oath of office entails upon them the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment as well as other laws and pledge our support to this end.

"Second—We go on record that an automobile driver who has been drinking intoxicating liquors, should be deprived of his license and given the minimum fine of $5 or the maximum fine of $100.

"Third—We urge aggressive conservative effort to preserve the sancity of the Lord's day—the holy Sabbath day.

"Fourth—We recommend legislation for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools that the education of our youths may be spiritual as well as intellectual.

"Fifth—We affirm that any teacher that uses cigarettes shall not be employed in our public schools.

"Sixth—We go on record as a W. C. T. U. opposing any change in the direct primary law.

"We extend our sincere thanks to the unions of Wellsville who have so splendidly provided for our comfort and entertainment; to the singers and to the trustees of this church for the use of the church and to all who have in any way contributed to the success of this convention."

WOMAN FREED IN DEATH CASE

Wellsburg Jury Finds Husband Was Victim of Accident.

Given her freedom by a Wellsburg jury which found that Albert Graham, her husband, was shot to death accidentally, Mrs. Mabel Graham, 27, of Canton, O., returned to her home today with her mother, Mrs. Alice Fraubel, and her baby.

Graham, a former Canton Sunday school teacher, was shot and killed as he and his wife rode through the streets of Wellsburg, their former home, last Monday night.

"I didn't mean to kill Albert," the widow told the Brooke county coroner's jury. "I wouldn't have harmed him for the world. I meant to kill myself and end it all when he refused to live with me and the baby. There seemed no other way out of my trouble.

"I confess the gun was in my right hand when it exploded, because I reached down on the seat and picked it up, telling Albert, since he would not live with us, I would kill myself.

"First he tried to get possession of the gun with his right hand. When he used both hands in trying to wrest the gun from me, it exploded. I heard the report—then the crash of the machine as it went over a stone wall and that is all I remember."

Girl Gained 7 Pounds Nine Years An Invalid

That's just what McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablets did for the Babcock Girl—and is doing as much for tens of thousands of thin, underweight, weak and discouraged people all over America.

These sugar coated, pleasant to take, tablets should be given to children instead of the vile stomach upsetting oil itself—they surely do help the frail, delicate little ones and 60 tablets cost but 60 cents at Mathews Med. Store or any druggist.

Read this letter if you have a child that needs to gain health and strength:

"My little girl was stricken with infantile paralysis when she was 5 months old and was an invalid for 9 years—when I saw an ad in the paper that McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablet would build up wasted tissues. I bought a box and she gained very slowly at first and after taking eight boxes, she gained seven pounds. Thanks to McCoy's Cod Liver Oil Compound Tablet, after trying almost everything else on the market. She is on the road to recovery and goes to school every day." Mrs. L. Babcock, Appleton, Wis.

Imitations of McCoy's may be offered but be sure and ask for McCoy's, the original and genuine and if after thirty days' treatment you are not delighted with results—why get your money back.

Three figures which mean extra motor car value

Buick motor cars are now designated by their wheelbase lengths. Series One Fifteen has 114½ inches of wheelbase. Series One Twenty is 120 inches from axle to axle, and Series One Twenty-eight measures 128 inches.

Many cars, several inches shorter than Buick and without advantages offered by Buick design, are priced considerably higher.

Compare the wheelbase length of other cars to Buick, before you spend your money.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1926.

Death at a Grade Crossing

East Liverpool added a name to the rapidly growing total of grade crossing deaths in the United States, when Thomas Durbin, of Chester, pottery decorating shop foreman, succumbed in the City hospital last night as a result of injuries received at noon yesterday when he was run down by a Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad switch engine.

On his way back to the Thompson pottery, where he was employed, he failed to notice the approach of the locomotive as he started over the crossing at the foot of College street. He was knock down by the engine, and injuries he received forced surgeons to amputate his right leg above the knee. The shock and loss of blood proved fatal.

According to interstate commerce commission reports, a total of 2,606 deaths have occurred at grade crossings for the first five months of 1926.

This appalling toll prompts the demand for the removal of all death traps. When railroads were built in sparsely populated territories, overhead and underground crossings were unnecessary. And to remove all dangerous intersection points in a short span of years is impossible because of the time and expense.

Until the railroad companies respond to the appeal for establishment of additional safeguards at crossings, pedestrians should exercise a normal amount of caution, especially when no watchman is on duty.

Turkey And The League

The "Sick Man of Europe," as has been remarked more than once, is doing better since he left Europe to recuperate in his native Asia. The latest sign of Turkish convalescence is the application for membership in the league of nations.

Her admittance would shrink the list of important non-members to America and Russia.

Reports from Geneva say that the Turkish government, which means Mustapha Kemal, is ready to join the league if the member nations will give that country a seat on the council.

This is an ambitious request, which would have been rejected with scorn a few years ago. But the Turks have made much progress politically and economically, and they insist that they merit the honor of sitting with the big powers at Geneva because they would be "the representative of Islam."

There is still magic in that word, despite the disintegration of the old Islamic empire built up by the Turks. The religion of Mohammed has about 220,000,000 followers, about 40 per cent as many as all the Christians in the world and more than any other non-Christian sect except possibly the Confucianists. Mohammendanism, needless to say, is more dynamic than Confucianism.

It would be embarrassing to give Turkey a permanent seat in the league council after denying it to Spain. Yet Turkey has a pretty good claim to a non-permanent seat, because of the influence she can exert in Asia and Arifca, and she may obtain it.

Deadly Swimmin' Holes

Swimming time's about over, but there's something to remember for next season. The "old swimmin' hole" is dangerous.

Let the grown-ups brush aside sentimental recollections and let the kids forego the thoughtless quest of a little immediate fun, and face scientific facts.

The swimming holes may have been all right in former days, explains a health magazine, but as population grows the streams are polluted so that they become unfit to swim in. Even a pool that looks as fair to a boy's eye as it did to his father's may be full of typhoid germs or other disease-spreaders. The water, getting into the eyes, nose, ears and throat, starts serious infections. In many communities the past summer doctors have been obliged to place a ban on swimming, lest whole families become infected.

Thus the old-time swimming hole joins the moss-covered bucket in dishonorable banishment. Swimming is one of the foremost American sports, as it deserves to be. But more and more, communities not situated near large bodies of water providing hygienic bathing beaches are driven to install swimming pools whose water can be controlled to insure purity.

The New Cable

Every schoolchild knows "How Cyrus Laid the Cable" and the thrill that ran through the land when from the Old World to the New, along the bottom of the sea, came the message, "What hath God wrought?"

Just the other day there was another cable laid across the Atlantic and the American end of it hooked up in New York. Only a few spectators looked idly at the cable ship landing the sheathed wire while the nation as a whole paid no attention whatever.

It is a fine cable, too, the best yet, guaranteed to transmit eight times as much matter as any existing cable, through its use of a remarkable new material called "permalloy." That will enable the two hemispheres to say more quickly and volubly whatever they have to say to each other, which is probably a good thing, in spite of an occasional feeling that there is too much being said already.

Evidently practical men in the message-transmission business don't expect wireless to supplant wires yet for a while. The cables are expected to continue doing the heavy work, with raido to supplement them.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—I often wonder what is the final finish of those stage folk who have their fleeting moments in the spotlight because of their agility to perform this stunt or that. Many have laboured for years to reach perfection.

It may be an acrobatic dance, a clownish fall or a hazardous feat on a death defying contraption. They are usually "spotted" in the anti-climax of a revue for a season and are then heard of no more. Newer ideas relegate them to an obscurity as sudden as their rise.

There is an actor who spent four years mastering some intricate stunts on skis. He had a seven weeks engagement and the novelty wore off. He had nothing else to offer. Novelty dancers of all performers face the rockiest road.

It is a calling depending almost entirely upon the suppleness of youth. For the most expert in Terpsichorean nimbleness a five year career is a long one. A few clog and soft shoe dancers have continued into more mature years, but not many.

Toe dancers, unless particularly fortunate, suffer from arch trouble after two or three years and cannot work steadily. Recently no record of 10 acrobatic and toe dancers of five years ago could be found. It was as though the earth had swallowed them.

Indeed, with a few exceptions, no player in any branch of the profession has been able to maintain a top-notch popularity for ten years. The average is about six. Then there are finished performers with extraordinary popularity outside of New York who do "not register on Broadway.

And what becomes of the performers with the trained seal or crew, when their pets give up the ghost?

Another curiosity irking phase of Broadway life is what jazz band players talk about between tunes. They appear to be indulging the most animated conversation with occasional bits of skylarking. They are never listless when not working, and from the nature of their job they should be.

On reflection there doesn't seem to be any worker who really gets so much fun out of his job as a jazz band player. He is ever the gay piper skirling to the flashing whirl. His life is attuned to a hip-hip hooray and ting-aling-ling. I just phoned Ben Bernie to learn if a jazz player was ever late to work. "Never," he said, "they are always ahead of time."

There is a saying in the Furious Forties that so and so is "on the stuff"—which means drug addiction. Drug slavery, like misery, loves company, and this is why so many victims are netted. Narcotic agents say that never in Broadway's history were so many young and beautiful girls "falling for the stuff." They are mostly the thrill seekers caught in jaded moments and persuaded to try it just once. The tales they tell these days of drug addicts sound like those told in confession magazines.

"Hitting the pipe" or opium smoking is regarded in the Tenderloin as the least likely to form the chronic habit, and heroin is regarded as the deadliest of all narcotics inspiring crazy dreams. The confirmed addict rarely indulges in strong drink. The effects are too mild and the combination of the two is too much for the strongest.

The drug user is more than likely able to hide his habit from his closest friends. One celebrated wit has been a regular user of drugs for 25 years, and it was only recently his secret became generally known. He would stay up all night but never take a drink.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Canda's Development.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—For many years it has been the opinion of some Americans that the United States and Canada should be joined into one great nation. In fact, in the War of 1812 there was an abortive effort to bring about a conquest. Some Canadians, also, are said to be inclined to favor a unification, but, in both cases, such parties constitute a relatively insignificant minority.

It seems highly unlikely that any such unification will take place in the next generation or in the next century, if ever, so far as an outright political juncture is concerned, but a study of the economic relations between Canada and the United States reveals that there actually has been a juncture perhaps more fundamental than political absorption.

The fact is that the United States has practically supplanted England as the chief economic ally of the Dominion of Canada and that whereas Canade for many years looked to the homeland for aid in her development she now looks to this country.

Politically, the Canadians are intensely loyal to England and regard that land as home in almost every sense of the word. The vigor and courage with which Canada rallied to the mother country in the World war strongly revealed that. But also the Canadians have always had a certain independence of spirit so far as their economic concerns go.

It will be remembered that the Dominion had a very spirited controversy with Great Britain over a tariff question some years ago. Feeling ran so high over the British government's efforts to dictate the Dominion's tariff policy that actual secession and war were threatened. Rudyard Kipling crystallized the Canadian sentiment of independence in his verses on the subject when he wrote, putting the words in the mouth of the spirit of Canada: "Daughter am I in my mother's house. But mistress in my own."

It seems as certain as anything human seems that there never will be any attempt on the part of the United States to effect a military conquest of Canada. The conquest is going on silently in another way. In 1913 of the foreign capital invested in Canade, 77 per cent was British while only 17 per cent came from the United States. Only ten years later the balance was reversed, the mother country having 42 per cent of the externally held investments while United States citizens held 52 per cent.

Large Industrial Projects.

American citizens have established large industrial projects in Canada. The automobile industry is a notable example, but lumbering, paper making, and many other industries are represented. In 1923 Canadians owned 58 per cent of the industrial plants located within her borders, the United States 31 per cent, and Great Britain only 10 per cent.

Canada is growing rapidly in wealth, due not only to native Canadian enterprise which is somewhat akin to that which has characterized Americans, but to the investments made by United States citizens. Some of the figures on Canada's growth are of surpassing interest.

The population still is small in relation to the vast territory occupied, but it shows a healthy growth. It was 7,207,000 in 1911 and 9,364,000 in 1925.

Over the same period of years the value of crops has more than trebled rising from $384,514,000 in 1911 to $1,153,395,000 in 1925. Vast acreages have been opened up, being put mostly in wheat. The mineral output has doubled, rising from $103,221,000 in 1911 to $228,440,000 in 1925. Canada has tremendous coal fields which are entirely untouched on account of lack of railroad facilities. There is an abundance of iron, also, as well as more precious metals.

Figures for 1925 are not yet available on the industries but are shown for 1923. In 1911 the capital invested in industry was $1,247,584,000 while in 1923 it had reached $3,380,322,000 and the products of the industries increased from $1,165,976,000 in 1911 to $3,051,597,000 in 1923.

The trend of the Dominion's foreign trade is especially significant. Imports for consumption in the fiscal year 1911-12 were $522,405,000 and the exports $290,224,000. In 1925-6 imports were $927,403,000 and exports $1,315,193,000. It will be seen from these figures that while the 1925 imports were less than twice those of 1911 the 1925 exports were more than four times those of 1911. In other words, Canada did not increase her purchases abroad in anything like the ratio in which she increased her sales to the outside world.

Such a situation—the whole picture of production and foreign trade—means increased wealth. Bank deposits rose from $980,434,000 in 1911 to $2,221,161,000 in 1925.

Large Railroad Milage.

One of the most remarkable developments produced by Canadian enterprise is to be found in her railroad system. She has close to 40,000 miles of railroad compared with about 250,000 miles in the United States. In other words, with considerably less than one-tenth of the population of

A TRIBUTE TO A THRIFTY RACE.

It is said that there are no garbage collectors in France, the reason for this being that nothing is every thrown away by the canny French housewife.

But in the matter of individual thrift the Scotch are not far behind, if at all.

An old Liverpool pilot professed to be able to tell the home port of any incoming vessel within a reasonable distance by what seamen still call "the cut of her jib," meaning thereby her general appearance.

To test his powers an onlooker called his attention to a ship coming up the Mersey in the far distance.

The pilot gazed long and earnestly, and eventually pronounced her an Aberdeen boat. Achorus of surprised voices inquired how he knew.

"No seagulls following her!" he said.

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by the great information bureau maintained by The Review & Tribune in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in stamps for return postage, and address The East Liverpool Review & Tribune Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Are sparrows or robins more numerous in New England? A. B.

A. A survey that has been made in the Northeastern States shows that the most abundant bird on farms is the robin; next to this the English sparrow; and following these are catbird, brown thrasher, house wren, kingbird, and blue bird, in the order named.

Q. Has Will H. Hays' contract been renewed? R. J.

A. His contract as president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America Inc. has been renewed for ten years. Since his present contract has more than a year to run, the next one will expire in 1937.

Q. Do any hay fever cases ever develop their attacks from certain foods? S. T. S.

A. It has been observed that this does happen. Among the foods that have been known to cause hay fever attacks in certain cases are fish, shellfish, meats, wheat flour, eggs, lettuce, Worcestershire sauce and watermelons.

Q. How much did it cost to build the Capitol in Washington B. E. T.

A. As now completed it cost over $16,000,000.

Q. Where is the Island of Death? G. T. T.

A. This is a name given to a rock formation or islet just off Corfu named Potikonese. According to tradition it was once a Phaeacian ship which returning after landing Odysseus at Ithaca was turned to stone by Poseidon and anchored forever to the floor of the "wine dark" sea. The island is the subject of a painting by Arnold Boecklin in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Q. In playing Auction is it permissible ever to make an original bid on a five-card suit that is not headed by an Ace or King? N. D.

A. Auction Bridge authorities sanction an initial suit-bid of one on a five-card suit headed by the Queen and Jack, or by the Queen and Ten, provided there are two quick tricks in the hand, or on a five-card suit headed by the Jack and Ten, provided there are three quick tricks in the hand.

Q. How long has the term Bolsheviki been applied to the Russian party? A. M.

A. There appears to be no evidence that this term and Mensheviki were current before 1903, but by 1905 they were definitely applied to the Russian parties.

Q. What percentage of the women of this country are unmarried? T. T. P.

A. Of the 35,177,515 females in the United States as shown by the 1920 census that are fifteen years of age or over, 27.3 per cent were single, 60.6 per cent were married, 11.1 per cent were widowed, and 0.8 per cent were divorced.

Q. How is the width of a railroad track measured to determine whether it is standard gauge or narrow gauge? H. B. M.

A. The standard gauge of railways is 4 feet 8 1-2 inches, measured from the inside of one rail to the inside of the opposite rail about five-eights of an inch below the top of the rail head. Narrow gauge railroads of 3 or 3 1-2 feet are measured between the top centers of the rails.

Q. What is meant by Flemish bond? G. N. H.

A. In masonry it is the name given to brick laid up in alternate headers and stretchers. This style was very popular with early American brick layers.

Q. Please advise me of a way to produce real lightning on a stage. G. McG.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that to produce realistic lightning discharges would require too much apparatus and in addition would be dangerous. By means of a carbon arc and a suitable shutter, the appearance of lightning flashes off stage can readily be produced, but to imitate an actual lightning flash where the streak could be observed by the audience, is a much more difficult matter.

Q. Q. Please relate the story of the composition of "Rock of Ages." I. V. C.

A. According to the story, Wesley, the great leader and hymn writer, and Toplady, the Anglican churchman met and were drawn into a very heated argument over some current theological questions. They argued until long after midnight. Neither yielded a point. When they separated, Toplady was wrought up to a high state of spiritual excitement. Not being able to sleep he sat and thought. In a moment of exaltation the words of the hymn "Rock of Ages" began to some to his mind. He began to write. Before dawn he had produced this master hymn.

Q. Hoy many chapters are there in "The Book of the Dead?- J. M.

A. There are 106 chapters. It is the chief monument of the religious literature of Egypt.

Q. What was the limerick that Woodrow Wilson used to quote about his own looks? G. R. C.

A. "For beauty I am not a star. There are others more handsome by far; My face, I don't mind it For I am behind it, It's the people in front that I jar."

If Tired, Worn-Out, Weak and Run-Down Regain Vigor Thru Gland Treatment

GLAND secretions are called hormones — mysterious messengers which science has discovered exert a remarkable influence on health, strength and vitality.

When the glands function normally, they supply these vitalizing hormones (or secretions) which are essential to physical well-being. And when the glands fail to function, health fails.

Now, glandular treatment, which is indorsed by eminent scientists and physicians of this country and Europe, is being used by thousands of men and women to help overcome a weakened, worn-out, run-down, exhausted condition and to regain the strength, vigor and vitality that are the natural benefits resulting from a normal glandular system.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment Glandogen is prepared to convenient tablet form, for both men and women. Accept no substitutes, insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

BOOK TWO—III.

Five minutes of three.

The railroad station houses a gathering strictly stag. The platform groans with the tramp and stamp of young masculine impatience, and is animate with trouser-legs as wide as bolster-cases. Hundreds of boys are there, collegians, recognizable anywhere by their clothes, and the tilt of their hats, and the just-tubbed look, and their air of insouciance and irresponsibility and "what-the-hell-do-we-care-now." One senses light hearts and heavy hip pockets. They stand in groups, talking, or sit on baggage-trucks and swing their red-shod feet, or lean against posts and stare raptly into space, or rush about with such busy haste that their unbuttoned coats curve on the air behind them like raccoon wigwams. They laugh, and whistle, and bawl forth jibes and aphorisms. They only thing they do not do is the thing they unanimously want to do—walk out on the tracks and peer for the train. They do not do this because they deem it "kid stuff," the natural trick of a youngster about to be taken on the choo-choo to see Grandma. He who succumbed, and did it, would "get the razz." A number of them have cornered the ticket agent, a nervous individual with a taffy-candy mustache, and are telling him something in low solemn tones. He is listening sheepishly, and rather suspiciously, and saying "Aw!" and "Aw, git out!" and "Aw, g'wan!"

Three o'clock.

There is a crackling electric tension in the air—then a cheer, and a general surge toward the plattform's edge. The locomotive blows its warm quick breath against their faces, crashes past, stops. Strings of girls begin to spill from every coach. Magazine cover-girls, these. Lovely laughing girls in furry coats and bright hats and wee ridiculous slippers. Blonde girls and dark, tall girls and tiny, all shapely and delicately tinted sweet with perfume. Each poses an instant on the train steps, to look and to be looked at. . . then becomes a part of the crowd, and jostles, and grows breathless, and cries at last, "Oh, there you are!" . . . and is hailed happily, and seized, and borne away. . . . .

Prom, glittering pageant of a glittering age, has begun.

IV.

"And how's Molly?"

"Oh, fine, Jock, and so glad to be here!"

The roadster was parked at the rear of the station. Jock assisted Molly to it and into it, stowed away her luggage, then slid in himself over the side and slouched down beside here. "We'll have to wait a minute," he remarked. "I promised Bones we'd take him and his girl up with us."

They smiled at one another, Molly meaningly and personally, Jock in a casual sort of way. "She's all right for a prom," he told himself. "Clothes, and looks, and an awfully good dancer. If only she doesn't start talking like an idiot—Oh Lord, she's going to!" he finished. He knew that preliminary flicker of the lashes.

"Jock," said Molly softly, "there were a million girls on that train, and I felt so superior to all of them, you can't imagine, because they were coming to the prom with just any old boy and I was coming with you. Oh, Jock, I'm so glad to be here—say you're a little glad to have me—"

The timely reappearance of Bones at this instant spared the necessity of a reply. He wore a fatuous grin, and by one arm he guided a slender, graceful girl with greenish eyes and commas of yellow hair sweeping out onto her cheeks below a green hat. Jock identified her as the original of the favorite photograph in Bones' collection.

"Norma, this is the roommate, Jock Hamill—don't believe anything he tells you about me. Miss Norma Knight, Jock. You know—the one I talk in my sleep about—"

Jock completed the mutual introductions, and observed that the two girls met with an instant hostility, only thinly veiled. "All prom-girls hate all other prom-girls," he made a mental note.

The ride up the hill to the fraternity house was accomplished in short order, and the girls escorted inside. There was a momentary pause in the lower hall while they squealed admiringly, in chorus, "Oh, isn't this darling!"—as was expected of them. Then Jock and Bones showed the way upstairs and to their room.

"Don't take long, you two," Bones commanded when they had set down numerous suitcases and were preparing to withdraw. "There's an interfraternity tea dance at the Union at four o'clock, and you have to meet everybody and lap up a couple of cocktails apiece between now and then."

"We'll be down in ten minutes," promised Norma Knight.

"I'll be ready in five," added Molly, not to be outdone.

Jock and Bones descended the stairs again and encountered Dopey Lane and his girl just entering. Dopey presented them mournfully.

"Jock Hamill, Cecily Graves. And Bones Allen."

Jock's first thought was that she ought to put cold cream, or whatever it was they usually put, on her hands. The one that he took in greeting was rough and chapped. But it gave a firm pressure, and he liked that. Shaking hands with some girls was like gripping a listless bit of cotton batting.

"Hello, Miss Graves."

"How-do-you-do?"

Tinkling silver voice. But he saw that aside from the voice and the handclasp and a certain fundamental prettiness, Cecily Graves was all wrong. Her clothes were wrong, and the way she wore them was wrong, and even the silence that followed her "How-do-you-do" was wrong. Girls ought to say something more, immediately. When they did not they gave you an impression of timidity and stupidity—of either not knowing anything more to say, or of being too embarrassed to say it, or both. Jock decided that it was embarrassment in Cecily. Whatever else you might think of her, she didn't look stupid. Too bright a glint in the brown eyes for that.

"See you later," Dopey nodded, and conducted her past them toward the stairway.

"Gee, he did pick a quince, didn't he?" muttered Bones.

Jock looked thoughtful. "I believe I kind of like her," he said. And added, as Bones stared incredulously, "Anyway, I'm sorry for the poor little kid."

MAN AND WIFE KILL SELVES IN WASHINGTON

Suicide Pact Carried Out in Willard Hotel Room.

POISON AGENCY

Leave Letters Expressing "Regret;" Ask Cremation of Bodies.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A fashionably dressed, middle-aged couple, registered as Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Doyle, of Brooklyn, carried out a suicide pact in a room at the Willard hotel here today.

Poison, or an overdose of some powerful drug, the police are not certain which, was the agency they employed.

Their pact had evidently been carefully planned, for letters were left on a table in their room, one to the manager of the hotel, another to the chief of police of Washington, expressing regret at the "trouble" caused, and asking that the bodies be cremated. Even the hotel servants were remembered, as a sum of money was left in an envelope, with directions that it be distributed to those who had served them.

Phone Call First Intimation.

Further evidence of the careful deliberation that preceded their act was that they had written a letter yesterday to a Mr. Halsey in Brooklyn, apprising him of their intention.

The first intimation the hotel had of anything amiss was a long distance telephone call from Brooklyn this morning from Halsey, inquiring whether Mr. and Mrs. Doyle were dead. He said he had a letter delivered this morning in which they stated their intention of dying together.

N. A. Tyler, assistant manager of the hotel, found Mrs. Doyle lying full length on the bed, fully clothed, and dead. The man was seated in a chair facing the woman, also fully clothed. There was no indication of a struggle.

Dr. D. W. Prentiss said the couple had been dead four or five hours. They registered early yesterday.

UPSHAW LOSES GEORGIA RACE

Militant Dry Leader Defeated in Fight for Congress.

ATLANTA, Sept. 9.—Congressman William D. Upshaw, militant dry leader, was defeated in the Georgia Democratic primary Wednesday by Leslie J. Steele, prominent lawyer of Decatur, Ga.

Returns today showed Upshaw ran second in the heated three-cornered contest with Mayor Walter Sims of Atlanta third.

Senator Walter F. George was renominated by an overwhelming majority, defeating his opponent Richard B. Russell, chief justice of the Georgia supreme court, who attacked George for his support of the world court proposal.

A run-off appeared likely today in the gubernatorial race. Neither Dr. L. G. Hardman nor John N. Holder has secured a majority of the county unit votes, necessary under Georgia primary laws. Hardman was leading Holder and his two other opponents on the basis of fairly complete returns.

U. S. Senator Willis Will Make Address At East Palestine

In the event of inclement weather the exercises will be held indoors.

while the railroads get the hundreds of millions more and have the government and its Interstate Commerce commission always ready to force the public to pay higher rates if railroads need them.

THE government, compelling the public to pay more for railroad service, without giving the public anything to say about it, should also compel railroads to pay more to working people, without giving railroads anything to say about it. But government and its workings are arranged by those that own the railroads, not by those that work on the railroads.

FANATICISM HIT BY PRIEST

Rev. W. J. Ready, Cleveland, Speaks at Kiwanis Meet.

Hitting fanaticism, whether in religion or business, as one of the most outstanding impediments to individual and community progress, Rev. Walter J. Ready, Cleveland priest, delivered an inspirational address to approximately 50 members of the Kiwanis club at their noon luncheon meeting today in the Larkins' restaurant annex.

President C. C. Cline, in charge of the meeting, first introduced Rev. E. B. Conry, of Salineville, who, after a few remarks, in turn introduced the Cleveland clergyman.

Announcement was made by President Cline of the sixth district club meeting which will be held on Thursday, September 16, at Alliance, beginning at 6:30 p. m.

Club members were also invited to attend the Kiwanis state convention which will be held in Columbus over a period of three days, September 20, 21 and 22.

"Religion alone does not foster fanatics, although sometimes we are wont to think of religion when the term 'fanatic' is brought to our attention," said Father Ready. In his address he urged respect for the thoughts and views of others, whether in religious or business life.

Liverpool, were the crew in charge of the interurban car.

George Culp, 45, of Wellsville, was the motorman and R. M. White, 25, St. George street, was the conductor on the work train.

Interurban Car Crowded.

The interurban car was en route from East Liverpool to Steubenville. As it rounded a sharp curve near King's crossing the chemical car, which had been stopped a few minutes before, was seen and before Guy could bring his car to a stop, it crashed into the other.

A small flat car which was attached to the chemical car was driven half way through the passenger car by the impact. The roof of the interurban was ripped off and parts of the car were knocked several hundred feet.

The interurban car was crowded with workmen. Guy, Emery and Slee, who were on the front platform of the passenger car, were caught between the two cars and crushed. Rescuers worked for almost a half hour before they were able to free the three men.

Ran Past Block, Belief.

After being freed the three men were rushed to the hospital in a private automobile.

According to officials of the traction company, the chemical car had been stopped by its employes to spray disinfectant on weeds alongside the tracks. A block signal was thrown, the officials said, by the workmen on the chemical car when that car was stopped. The workmen had been there only a few minutes when the accident occurred.

According to Steubenville reports, is is believed the motorman of the interurban unintentionally ran past the block.

Both cars were complete wrecks. Parts of them were strewn along the tracks for hundreds of feet, while a part of the roof of the passenger car was found several hundred feet away in a field.

When word of the accident reached Steubenville the traction company officials sent several ambulances and over a score of doctors to the scene to give first aid to the injured.

COOLIDGE MAY LOSE CAPITOL HILL CONTROL

Insurgent-Democratic Coalition Has Upper Hand in Senate.

REGULARS LOSE

Maximum Republican Strength, on Paper, is 55.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.— The Coolidge administration, for all practical purposes, already has lost control of the next senate.

There have been sufficent casualties among the regular or stalwart Republicans in the primaries to date to insure the balance of power being held by insurgents, with actual control vested in a coalition of these insurgents with the Democrats whenever they care to combine and exercise it.

This will be true irrespective of whether the Democrats win a single seat north of the Mason-Dixon line in November—and if there is any sizeable drift to the Democrats in northern states eight weeks hence even the paper majority of the Republicans will disappear.

Analysis of Primaries.

Analysis today of the primaries held thus far made these facts indisputable. The defeat of Senator Lenroot in Wisconsin, despite his being singled out for conspicuous personal endorsement by President Coolidge, was a particularly severe blow. It virtually insures two insurgent senators from Wisconsin in the seventieth congress, LaFollette and Blaine. Even in the palmy days of the elder LaFollette there was always one regular from Wisconsin.

The maximum Republican strength, on paper, in the next senate is 55, and to have that they must win every senatorial election outside of the solid south. But in that 55 there will be LaFollette and Blaine of Wisconsin, Frazier and Nye of North Dakota, Howell and Norris of Nebraska and Brookhart of Iowa—who voted more often against the White House than with it. There are also Borah of Idaho, Johnson of California, Norbeck and McMaster of South Dakota, and Couzens of Michigan, and while not as openly insurgent as the other grop, are very independent in their voting, and are impervious to the party whip.

The Democrats are jubilant, for they believe they can pick up several seats in November north of the Mason-Dixon line. They point to such spots as Oregon, where Senator Stanfield, defeated for renomination in the Republican primary, has announced his independent candidacy against the Republican who defeated him, Frederick Steiwar. To the Democrats, as well as to Republican leaders, this spells a split Republican vote and the probable election of Bert E. Haney, a Democrat, who defied President Coolidge a year ago to oust him from the U. S. shipping board.

Democrats Hopeful.

The Democrats are correspondingly hopeful about New York, where factional fighting among the Republicans, they believe, enormously strengthens the chances of defeating Senator Wadsworth. In Maryland, too, they believe they have a chance, and in Kentucky, Massachusetts, Missouri and Ohio.

The situation, in the new senate, promises to be very embarrassing for the Republicans in many ways, but more particularly in the issue that will be presented in the seating or unseating of Col. Frank L. Smith of Illinois, and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, provided they are elected as expected.

Police Surround Bandits Who Steal Gems Worth $500,000

BUCKLEY, Ill., Sept. 9.—The three Illinois Central railroad jewelry bandits were captured by a posse in a barn near here this morning.

ONARGA, Ill., Sept. 9.—Three bandits who robbed jewelry salesmen on an Illinois Central train of gems worth $500,000 last night are surrounded by a posse in a mud-soaked and partially inundated cornfield on the outskirts of this town, according to a report received by police here from Sheriff John Gray of Champaign county.

The attacking party, according to Gray, its leader, is waiting reinforcements before closing in.

William Erlanger

one price store which method of dealing was an innovation.

Changed Name of Firm.

In 1886 Josiah Thompson erected the three-story building at the southwest corner of Fifth and Washington streets, now occupied by the Erlanger store. A year later Mr. Erlanger leased the first floor and basement. At the same time he dropped the name of "The Philadelphia Branch Clothing House" and used his own name in conducting the business. This building was later purchased by M. E. Golding, the present owner. A few years after The Erlanger store was moved into this building, the second floor was leased.

Shortly before the store changed its location Mr. Erlanger returned to Bavaria and when he returned to the United States he was accompanied by his nephew, William Erlanger, Jr., then 17 years of age. The younger William Erlanger entered his uncle's store and later was taken into partnership when the name of the establishment was changed to the William Erlanger Company.

William Erlanger Sr., disposed of his interests in the East Liverpool store to William Erlanger, Jr., and Bert Erlanger in 1912. They are still conducting the business. The elder Erlanger went to Canton and at the present is president of the Stark Dry Goods company, one of Canton's largest establishments.

Launch Anniversary Sale.

The new owners leased the rear part of the present building, then occupied by the W. A. Weaver Company, wholesale grocers, in 1914 in order to take care of the rapidly growing business. The men's and boy's clothing departments were enlarged and recently new lines of merchandise such as women's dresses and millinery, underwear, sweaters, gloves, hosiery, infant's wear, dry goods, house furnishings and toys have been added, making the store one of the most up-to-date in eastern Ohio.

To commemorate the 46th anniversary of the store's establishment in East Liverpool, a gigantic sale will be launched when the doors open Friday morning. Bargain prices in all lines of merchandise, including goods which have been received for the fall trade, will prevail.

"The William Erlanger Company will continue the same honest business methods in the future that have made this store so popular in the past," said Bert Erlanger today. "We promise every one a square deal. It is our aim to grow bigger and better as the years roll on.

"The owners of this store wish to thank, on this, our 46th anniversary, our thousands of friends and customers who have been so instrumental in building up a business of which we have just cause to be proud."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The reactionary trend in the industrial stocks which featured the close of Wednesday's market was carried over into the early trading today. With few exceptions stocks were offered for sale in large volume and the trend of prices was distinctly downward from the start. The railroad stocks and motors sustained moderate losses, while liquidation in the oil stocks prevented any advances in that section of the market.

Bullish forces in the speculative market met with further disappointment in the 5 per cent call money renewal rate. Rumors in the financial district were to the effect that Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia reserve banks would advance their rediscount rates to 4½ per cent, signalizing the entrance of a tighter money market situation.

In the specialty stocks Warner Brothers advanced 4 points to 57 in continuance of the sensational rise which has brought the stock up from 12½ in about six weeks, and Radio sold above 51 on prospects of a profitable fall season.

Ben Lyon and May McAvoy Featured At The American

Create Amazing Ballroom Jungle for "The Savage," First National's Great Picture.

One of the most elaborate sets that has ever graced a First National pictures is seen in "The Savage," now showing at the American theatre.

The set was designed by Milton Menasco, art director for the Eastern units of First National, and just about presents the last word in jungle scenes. If a person were suddenly to awake in the middle of this set he might well think he had been transported during his sleep to an island far below the equator.

Cocoanut trees, jungle growth, monkeys chattering in the tree tops, a sparkling stream of water pouring down over the rocks and finally disappearing in the thick jungle growth in a small stream, wild animals darting here and there—but are but a few of the sights to be seen in this magnifisent setting.

It is here that one of the most colorful scenes of the picture was staged. It is a jungle ball. About one hundred extras were used in this scene, in which many innovations have been introduced, one of which is a monkey orchestra perched in the tree tops furnishing the music for the dancers, who are all attired in the skin of some wild animal.

It was solely for this jungle ball that this set was constructed. The exteriors of the picture were filmed later in the lower end of Florida, where the units went aboard a specially chartered yacht.

Ben Lyon is seen in this picture in the title role of the Savage. He spent a full month developing a beard and shaggy hair especially for the occasion, and at the start of the picture he needed little aid from the make-up man to look the part.

Concession space is being rapidly taken, and judging from the number of assignments, there will be more exhibition on the grounds this year than formerly.

All live stock entries have closed.

Speed entries will close at 10 o'clock Friday night and the class exhibit will close next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock.

Race purses this season will be $300 and $400 for the events to be run Sept. 15, while the purses for the Thursday races have been placed at $400 and $500, the latter purse being for the free-for-all. In all $3,000 in purses will be offered. The race money is to be divided with 50 percent to the winner, 25 percent to second place, 15 percent to third place and 10 percent to fourth place, without deductions to money winners. Under the rules this year all horses must be declared, the driver named, and the entrance fee of $10 paid before 6 o'clock the evening preceding the race. Entrance fees will be refunded by the fair board in the event that weather interferes with any of the races.

The transcript in the case of the Walton School of Commerce, Chicago, Ill., tried in the court of Justice Bonsall at Salem, against Michael Hoprick has been filed in common pleas court, an appeal having been taken by the defendant.

Hoprick, who is unable to read or write English, has his name attached to a contract, which is in the form of a note, to take a correspondence course of study, and he claims the signature was obtained by fraud. The case was tried to a jury Aug. 6 and a verdict for the plaintiff for $222 was rendered.

An application has been filed with the Public Utilities Commission at Columbus by the Canton-East Liverpool Coach company for permission to alter its schedule. Suit Over Oil and Gas Lease.

Cloid Benner and Ellen Benner have filed an action in common pleas court against Harry E. Tope of Steubenville and the Berea Oil company, of which J. E. Wright, of Steubenville, is president, to have an oil and gas lease declared null and void.

The plaintiffs, through their counsel, C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, have set up the claim that the lease given May 28, 1917, and which expired May 28, 1922, has been refused cancellation. The lease covered 20 acres of land in section 21, Knox township.

TAX RECEIPTS HIT $2,780,000

Valuations in County More Than Doubled in 20 Years.

Tax valuations in Columbiana county have practically more than doubled during the last 20 years, according to County Treasurer Jo Pike.

The June tax settlement sheet is now being prepared, and the December and June collection reveal the receipt of more than $2,780,000.

When Miss Pike entered the treasurer's office as a clerk the annual collection was around $1,000,000.

While there has been a steady growth in the county during the last decade, councils of the various corporations, township trustees and boards of education have been receiving greater funds because of local growth.

Collection of special assessments this year has resulted in various districts receiving additional funds.

The June settlement sheet is expected to be completed within the next two weeks.

Licensed to Wed.

A marriage license has been issued to H. N. Herrington of East Palestine, employed as a pottery worker, and Lela Harding of East Palestine, a widow, and formerly residing at Rogers.

Only 1,364 affidavits were filed during August, which was the lowest month of the year. Fees charged totalled $341.

INHERITANCE TAX DISBURSED

East Liverpool, With $18,741.80, Tops County List.

East Liverpool corporation received more money from the last inheritance tax settlement than any other taxing district in the county, it was announced today by County Auditor Elmer E. Walker. Lisbon was second, with Washingtonville in last place.

Warrants are now being forwarded the county corporations.

Amounts to be paid are as follows:

State of Ohio	$19,285.21
Center township	85.78
Fairfield township	81.83
West township	15.36
Knox township	66.96
Elkrun township	35.25
Butler township	45.18
Salem city	528.39
Wellsville city	415.54
East Liverpool city	18,741.80
Columbiana corporation	187.64
Lisbon village	1,126.11
Leetonia corporation	197.63

County fund (probate fee fund)	5.00
County fund (auditor's fee fund)	1,314.57

The law provides that one half of the inheritance tax received by a municipal corporation shall be credited to the sinking fund and the remainder to the general fund.

The previous settlement sheet disclosed that the corporation of Rogers received more money from the inheritance tax than it received during the entire year from direct tax collection. Under the present settlement, however, neither Rogers or Middleton township shared in the distribution.

Potters End Series With Midland Stars; Cop Three Straight

Decisive Conquest is Registered as Pennsylvanians Fall Beneath 6 to 1 Lacing; Parsons and McMath Lead Clubbers.

THE five-game Midland-East Liverpool baseball series is over as a result of the Ceramic City Club's decisive 6 to 1 conquest over the Pennsylvanians yesterday afternoon at Smith field in the third tilt of the layout. The Midland club appeared regularly in each of the three contests and aside from that furnished little opposition.

Parsons and McMath led the Potters in the bat attack with two solid blows apiece during the six innings of play. "Pars" crashed out a double and a single and McMath punched out a triple and a double.

Mundy pitched great ball, being especially strong in the pinches.

The visitors scored their lone tally in the first frame on a single by Wilson who finished on wide throws by Eddie Bayley and Herbert.

McMath's triple and a sacrifice fly by Bayley accounted for East Liverpool's run that tied the count in the same inning. Two more runners cross the plate in the third on a single by Mundy and doubles by Parsons and McMath.

By way of making it decisive, the Potters tacked on three more in the fifth. Parsons singled. Bailey walked and stole second as Parsons scampered to the hot corner. Both finished on Herbert's sizzling single. Herbert went to second on the play to the plate and scored when Andrews booted McShane's grounder.

Midland threatened in the sixth, with two down, when Thompson and Andrews singled and O'Neil was hit, filling the bases. Mundy tightened up, however, and fanned Yocum, a pinch hitter.

CHAMP LAUGHS AT BRIBE RUMOR

"$100,000 to Throw Decision" Yarn Springs Up Again.

By George Barry.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—A story eddied and whirled around in the ocean breezes here today which goeth like this:

"A man (presumably bold and very, very bad) who has bet a lot of money on Gene Tunney, is sprinkling around about $100,000 worth of "sugar" in Philadelphia so as to cinch the decision and the championship for his man."

When Dempsey was told of this, the champion laughed.

"Well, well, well," he commenced, "it's beginning to sound like the old days. I knew somebody would dig up a yarn like that sooner or later. They always do. And the figure is about the same. When I mixed it with Bill Brennan in New York somebody was going to get 100,000 nice beautiful dollars for throwing the decision to Bill. But I happened to win that one.

"And when I fought Georges Carpentier the same old rumor was circulated. Georges was going to win by hook or crook, it was said. But I happened to win that one.

"Out in Montana it was a bit different. I heard the rumor there that somebody was going to threaten to shoot Jim Dougherty's adam's apple if he didn't award the title in one way or another to Tommy Gibbons. And there was some money talk. Jim said so himself the other day. Talked about somebody offering him a "fabulous sum" to throw the decision to Tommy. Jim didn't give the exact figures, but I imagine it was the same old $100,000.

"And now its bumping around again, this $100,000 talk. What do I think of it? Well, I don't think there's enough money in the entire state of New York, not merely the city, where this 'heavy bettor' is supposed to be, to contaminate a single judge or referee or official identified with the Pennsylvania state athletic commission."

Gene Normile, who manages Dempsey, shook off 18 pounds as the result of a laughing fit that came when he heard the wild rumor.

"That 'bribe' story is the world's champion bunk," he said.

BETHANY GRID SQUAD AT WORK

Nuss Faces Job in Replacing Several Star Veterans.

BETHANY, W. Va., Sept. 9.—With over thirty-five candidates in camp the football season is officially under way at Bethany college. Coach Furman Nuss is busy drilling his men in all kinds of manoeuvers which will test their ability in the various departments of football. After this morning's practice he was greatly encouraged because he felt that among his new men has has some very promising material. From the looks of things at this early date these new men may give some of the veterans a race for their positions.

The Bison mentor faces the difficult task of replacing several good veterans. Loppacker, Dimick, Barlow, Rhine, Serafini, and Scott of last year's first string men will be lost to the squad, this year. Loppacker graduated last June, Barlow and Dimick have entered law schools, and Rhine, Serafini, and Scott are going to other colleges for special study. All of these men were valuable to the team and will be difficult to replace.

The position at end will be difficult to fill an will halfback position held by Loppacker. "Hump" Neel, Mingo speed demon will probably snatch one of the halves without a struggle. The other half will be filled by "Bobby" Stobbs of Wheeling who was a former Linsly star. Captain Carey at quarter and Hamill or Fiers at fullback will complete a formidable backfield.

The players are in camp at the college. Practice is being held twice a day on the old Bethany athletic field. The men are sleeping in North Cochran Hall the men's dromitory and are eating at Gordon's Inn.

TWO BILLS CARRY U. S. NET HONOR

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—Two Bills of large and smal physical denominations, but almost of a parity in skill and determination again will carry the honor of America out on the tennis courts this afternoon for the annual defense of the cherished Davis cup. The Bills in question were none other than Tilden and Johnson, ranking with Brookes and Wilding and the Doherty brothers as the most famouse pairs in tennis history, and that being the case, the general expectancy was that France, the official challenging nation, must pay the freight at the end of the three day test.

Jack Reads no Mail Except Lines From Wife and His "Ma"

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—About 200 letters and at least 50 telegrams arrive here daily for Jack Dempsey but he receives and reads none except those from his wife and mother. Even newspapers are taboo.

"I'm handling all the telegrams and letters for Jack these days," said Gene Normile, his manager. "The others will await answering by Jack himself until the fight is over.

"It struck me that no good could be accomplished for him to read and worry about so much mail during his training session."

PIRATES' FLAG HOPES RENEWED

Double Victory Over Reds May Prove Good Tonic.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Pittsburgh's pennant chances were considerably brighter today as a result of the double defeat which the world's champions administered to the Reds yesterday. The Pirates are now only half a game behind the Reds, who trail the Cardinals by three games.

The Corsairs will play a doubleheader with the Cubs today while St. Louis and Cincinnati are idle.

The Yankees lost yesterday but increased their advantage as the Indians also were defeated. If the Yanks win only half of their remaining 18 games, Cleveland must capture 17 out of 18 to finish in front.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.
Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In making all iron shots the best practice is to have the blade slightly opened as it is addressed back of the ball. That is, with the ball lying off the left instead and the hands slightly ahead of the ball, the sole or bottom of the clubhead would make a line (D-C) running slightly diagonally across the direction line (A-B). In the forward swing, then, the blade will be square when it meets the ball, assuming that the wrists throw the clubhead into and through the ball. If you so place the blade and then slice it, indicates you are quitting with the wrists near the ball or else dropping the right shoulder as you go forward. Hit down onto the ball and throw the blade through it—and outward across it.

The Giants and the Braves again split a double bill, New York winning the opener, 5 to 1, and Boston copping the nightcap, 4 to 2.

Linemen Take Orders From Cox; Pitt Star Drills Ball Toters

Handicapped by Lack of Space, Candidates go Through Preliminary Maneuvers; Stockdale and McKeever are Lost to Team.

ALTHOUGH a little early to make selections here and there for probable jobs on the Blue and White grid team, Head Coach George Kidder and his assistants, William Cox and Carl McCutcheon, feel anything but pessimistic as drill sessions get under way at City Park with a squad of more than 40 candidates in action.

Enough veterans to form the backbone of a robust eleven, speed and agility, as well as intelligence, and above all sufficient bulk on both line and backfield to stand a lot of pounding—this should be sufficient to encourage any coach.

The chief drawback at the present moment is lack of practice room. Patterson Field has become a veritable quagmire within the last week and as a result the squad has been compelled to take its daily dozen at City Park, a poor substitute. The squad is hampered by lack of space and must confine its activities to a small range scale.

The squad lost two men yesterday who probably could have been used when Stockdale, potential ball toter, and McKeever, who stood excellent chances of landing an end berth, withdrew. Stockdale is leaving school and McKeever lacks parental consent.

Football equipment has been issued to approximately 40 youths which, by the way, is one of the most representative outfits in years. Experiments are under way with some of the new skeleton pants material designed for wet weather use.

A short scrimmage session followed last night's signal drill, with McCutcheon directing backs in the end runs and off tackle thrusts and Cox pulling the guards out of the line to form interference for flank plays. A chalk talk by McCutcheon at the gymnasium ended the day.

Gene Doesn't Want Title On Foul And Thinks Referee Will Be Fair

By Davis J. Walsh.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—Wall Street may figure that Jack Dempsey is worth every bit of two dollars against one as a betting proposition. Atlantic City, or at least the boxing intelligentsia continguous thereto, may think the champion is absolutely "in." But this opinion is not altogether unanimous and Gene Tunney proved it today by picking himself to win the "duke," so-called, on the night of September 23.

The boy friend, of course, has done this before but never was he so convincing as he was this morning as he professed not the slightest interest in the identity of the referee or in the story that Dempsey is using the illegal "rabbit-punch" not a little in his training workouts.

"I'm going to win this fight for myself and no other man, not even Dempsey nor the referee is going to do it for me," said Tunney in tones that were just a trifle testy. "Any referee that is named is bound to give both of us a fair shake. As for Dempsey, he will enter the ring fully aware of the fact that he must abide by the rules.

Doesn't Want It On Foul.

"Understand me, I don't want the title on a foul and I hardly figure on getting it that way. Jack has never been disqualified for fouling, as far as I know, and neither have I. We're simply going in there and slug each other until one of us drops. That one won't be me. You can't beat a man who refuses to be beaten."

It is barely possible, of course, that Mr. Tunney may be just a bit biased on this question and the same inference may be leveled at the opinions held by Lou Fink, his trainer, and Bud Gorman, his sparring-partner-in-chief. They apparently can't see how the challenger can go wrong.

"Tunney has everything," Fink said. "He has youth, speed, experience, condition and gameness. Dempsey never has fought a man who had all of these things at once and he's going to notice the difference right away. Tunney, in my opinion, is the gamest man in the ring today. That statement may surprise some of the wisecrackers but I know it to be true."

Gorman's contribution to the general fund of information, alleged and otherwise, was the statement that he intended "to send in" all the money he can muster on the challenger.

"I never bet on a fight before but I'm not going to pass up this chance," quoth Bud. "Knowing what I know about Tunney, those odds look very good to me."

Unfortunately the writer could only hear Tunney fight this fight. I couldn't see him do it, because like Dempsey, the challenger yesterday declared a moratorium on boxing and permitted a shave and a haircut to answer the purpose of a work out. He looked very fit, at that.

Off-hand, it is impossible to say whether he is in better condition than Dempsey. I doubt if any man could be that. As a matter of fact, it is possible that the challenger is too good at this stage of the proceedings, although to suggest anything of the sort undobutedly would ruffle the young man's serenity. He is so close to the edge of condition that a chance word is likely to lash him into a lather

Fight Results

AT ST. JOHN, N. B. — George Fifield, Toronto welterweight, knocked out Humbert Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., in the sixth round.

AT TACOMA BOWL, DAYTON, Kentucky.—Vincent Hambright, Filipino slugging artist, knocked out Blockie Richards, Dayton, Ohio, just 45 seconds after the opening gong for a ten round battle.

Fighting with their backs to the wall, the Pirates crushed the Reds in both games of a twin bill by scores of 6 to 1 and 11 to 0. Meadows and Hill pitched airtight ball while Fred Brickell, 19-year-old Kansas high school boy, who is playing left field for the Pirates, got three hits in each game.

Wiltse of the Red Sox held the Yankees to five hits and beat them, 5 to 2, ending Boston's losing streak of seventeen straight. Rogers Hornsby and seven other members of the Cardinals watched the game but saw nothing to cause them any great worry.

FULTZ CASE COSTS HEAVY

Court Expenses May Set New Record for County.

Although the court costs in the appeal of John H. Fultz from the civil service commission of Wellsville have not been computed entirely by Clerk Frank Ballantine, it is declared by court attaches that the cost bill will be one of the heaviest ever recorded in the county, murder cases not being excepted.

In addition to counsel fees, there were approximately 250 witnesses called to testify in this case, and while not all were examined their appearance in court was made a matter of entry on the records of the clerk.

Preparation of the transcript in this case by the court reporter, Miss Alice Glenn, would prove a rather costly item. This record, should it be ordered prepared, will take in four days of testimony, and may form a book of 500 pages.

Witness fees and mileage will increase the bill. There were some volunteer witnesses placed on the stand no costs have been allowed in these few instances.

APPEAL MOVE UP TO SOLONS

Fultz Trial May be Council Topic Tonight.

With the expectation of reaching a decision on whether to authorize an appeal from the decision of common pleas court in the John Fultz removal fight, city council will hold an adjourned session tonight in city hall.

Judge W. H. Spence yesterday overruled the city's motion for a new trial and the appeal to higher court is the next step.

Solons, in a 40-minute caucus session prior to their regular meeting Tuesday evening, were unable to reach an agreement on the appeal move, and decided to adjourn until tonight to consider the problem further.

MISSION MEET AT U. P. CHURCH

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in the church parlors.

Members of the club will be accompanied by their wives and husbands. Assembling at 1:30 o'clock at the Carnegie library, Ninth and Main street, the members will make the trip in automobiles.

Basket supper will be served. Games and other outdoor diversions will feature the afternoon hours.

FIGURES RATE ON BOND ISSUE

Auditor Prepares Table Showing Cost to Taxpayers.

Cost of the proposed $45,000 bond issue which will be submitted to voters at the November election is shown in figures tabulated by City Auditor Fred Eckfeld, the initial year's rate being placed at 65 cents on the thousand.

Through the bond issue the city hopes to purchase a $12,500 combination fire truck and pumper; spend $2,500 in needed repairs to the city hall building; construct a Seventeenth street sewer at a cost of $24,000; make sewer improvements in Thirteenth street at a cost of $1,500; and at Twentieth street at a cost of $5,000.

It will cost taxpayers 65 cents on the thousand the first year. The second year it will be 63 cents and the third year 61 when the $1,500 section of the issue will be dropped.

The fourth year, then, the rate will fall to 54 cents and the fifth year to 52 when the $5,000 and $2,500 portions will be eliminated.

The rate would be 35 cents the sixth year and decrease a cent a year until 31 cents in the tenth year when $12,500 comes off. From then on, the rate, after a drop to 17 cents, decreases a half-cent annually.

Auditor Eckfeld has compiled a brief table in connection with data on the bond issue, of figures, in response to numerous requests, to show "where the city's money goes."

The figures follow:

the United States, she has nearly one-sixth as much railway line. Two transcontinental systems go from coast to coast.

This railroad achievement may be regarded as espcially notable because there are very extensives stretches of territory which still are wilderness where no freight traffic can be picked up, where local passenger traffic is conspicuously absent, and where there are no towns. Nevertheless, the great continent has been twice bridged by rails and regular service is maintained.

The romance of Canada is that so few people—no more for the whole vast Dominion than there are in New York State—have achieved so great a development. Canada produces 90 per cent of the world's cobalt, 88 per cent of the world's asbestos, and 80 per cent of the world's nickel. Eminence if not pre-eminence in other production only awaits more population and investment. Power resources are utterly immeasurable.

Immigration is going on on a fairly large scale although less by a good deal than formely. Immigration from Great Britain dropped from 138,000 in 1912 to only 53,000 in 1925. Immigration from United States dropped from 134,000 in 1912 to only 16,000 in 1925. Preliminary figures for 1926 indicate considerably larger figures. Immigration from all other countries dropped from 82,000 in 1912 to 42,000 in 1925.

One factor that aids in attracting American industry and capital to Canada is that both countries use the dollar as the standard of currency. Also, Canada now has returned to the gold standard, is an absolute free gold market, and gold moves unhindered back and forth across the border as the requirements of commercial dictate. The lack of necessity to change dollars into pounds sterling or any other currency unit facilitates transactions and every year a large volume of business is transacted with this country; a smaller with England.

The American tourist traffic has grown to tremendous proportions. Just how far prohibition in the United States has contributed to the increase in visitors from the United States may be a matter of personal opinion. Aside, however, from the fact that Canada is not dry, the Dominion offers such picturesque places as the ancient cities of Quebec and Montreal, both rich in historical associations, the Canadian Rockies, innumerable lakes of rare beauty, and many other tourist-attracting features. Further, it is a sportman's paradise.

THOMAS DURBIN, FREIGHT CAR VICTIM, DIES

Older Than That.
Pie-Eating Prisoners.
More Pay? Terrible.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

(The opinions expressed in this column are strictly those of Mr. Brisbane and not necessarily in consonance with the policies of The Review-Tribune.)

Copyright, 1926, by the Star Co.

AT Sunset last night, Rosh Hashanah began, ushering in year number 5687 since the creation of the world, according to Jewish teaching. The Christian religion adopts the old Jewish calculation. Christians and Jews know that the earth is much more than five hundred million years old, that men have been building cities, and killing each other on it for a great deal more than six thousand years. The old figures are preserved for the sake of sentiment.

THE Jewish people have moved about, like Celts, Normans, Danes and others, and have not dwindled. In New York City alone are at least 1,500,000 Jews, more than five times as many as existed in the days when David conquered and occupied the "mountain fortress of Jerusalem." (See the second book of Samuel.)

TO treat prisoners cruel is vile. To make a joke of their crimes is stupid. The governor of New York should tell [illegible]als of Sing Sing what he thinks of their Labor Day pie-eating contest. 12 convicts with their hands tied behind their backs, eating pies, like swine, for a $5 prize.

How does that im[illegible] and women, out of prison, [illegible]ood for their children

HOWEVER, stupid as with pie-eating contests [illegible] the prison of that good [illegible], in which prisoners wore iron collars, with sharp spikes turned inward, so they could not lie down to sleep, or the Spanish prison in which the noble-hearted English prison reformer found a man fastened to the wall, his feet above ground, starving "his face blotted with blood and tears," or the prison mines, in which Peter the Great chained each prisoner to his wheelbarrow, to stay chained night and day until death released him: better than the ancient galley, where the man chained to the oar was released when he fainted or died, his hand cut off to save time, body thrown overboard and another slave chained in his place.

We are sentimental fools in our prisons, but we have improved.

THE stock market opened cheerful after Labor day. But with one crumpled rose leaf in the bed of high finance. It "fears that agitation for better wages among railroad employees may be successful." It might even "add one hundred million dollars a year to the railroad payroll. The present prosperity of the railroads will probably force the granting of something.'

WOULDN'T that me too had? Men that owned railroad stocks, and never do, never did, never will do any hard work, think it sad that the men working on the railroads should get one hundred million dollars more a year. That would be a great deal less than 30 cents a day average for each men.

RIGHT LEG AMPUTATED AFTER HE IS RUN DOWN NEAR POTTERY PLANT

Chester Man is Fatally Injured on Grade Crossing at Foot of College Street.

FAILED TO SEE SWITCH ENGINE

Funeral Services Will be Held in Church of Nazarene Sunday Afternoon.

Thomas Durbin, 42, of Chester, superintendent of the decorating department at the C. C. Thompson pottery, where he had been employed for 26 years, died in the City hospital at 11:30 o'clock last night from shock, superinduced by the amputation of his right leg after he was run down by a freight train at the College street crossing yesterday afternoon.

Awaits Passing of Train.

Durbin, who resided in Indiana avenue, Chester, was returning to the pottery from dinner, when the accident occurred. At the C. & P. railroad crossing, a short distance from the pottery, Durbin stopped to await for an eastbound freight train to pass. Another string of cars was standing on the adjoining tracks.

After the train had passed Durbin, it is said, started across the tracks in back of the string of cars. Just as he reached the tracks, a switching engine coupled the string of cars and Durbin was thrown beneath the wheels of a box car. A brakeman heard Durbin's cries for help signaled for the engineer to stop the train. One set of trucks had passed over the victim's right leg, almost completely severing it just above the knee.

An unidentified expressman, who is believed to have been the only eyewitness to the accident, hurried into the Thompson pottery office and asked that an ambulance be called. Both Sturgis and Miller ambulances responded and the victim was taken to the hospital in the latter machine.

Leg Is Amputated.

The leg, which was badly mangled, was amputated by Drs. W. A. Hobbs of this city and J. L. Pyle of Chester.

Durbin came to Chester at the age of 16 years when he entered the employment of the Thompson pottery. He was active in church work, being president of the Chester mission, Virginia avenue, from 1906 to 1915. He was also a trustee of the East Liverpool Church of the Nazarene and superintendent of the Sunday school. He was also a trustee in the Hollow Rock camp meeting association.

Besides his widow, he leaves two children, Lloyd and Lois Durbin, both at home. His mother, Mrs. Margaret Durbin, of Chester, and three brothers and one sister, Joseph Durbin, Steubenville; Elmer A. and Earl E. Durbin and Mrs. John E. Allison, all of Chester, also survive.

Funeral services will be conducted in the East Liverpool Church of the Nazarene, Lincoln and St. Clair avenues at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon. Rev. O. L. Benedum, pastor, and Rev. B. H. Pocock of the Chester Church of the Nazarene assisted by other ministers will be in charge.

The body will be taken to Salineville where burial will be made in Woodlawn cemetery.

CORNING, O., Sept. 9.—Awakening shortly after midnight, to find a masked man covering her with a revolver, and threatening her life if she made an outcry, Mrs. W. P. Shaw pinched her baby which lay beside her asleep. The baby cried. She begged the bandit to permit her to get out of bed and put it in its crib across the room.

The bandit growlingly consented. She jumped from a window and ran to the home of a neighbor, where, after telling her story, she fainted, still holding the crying babe.

Sheriff McNabb is still searching for the man.

CARL STUDER ARRESTED IN CANTON QUIZ

Any Illicit Business on Stand in Lengel Trial.

HINT NEW COUNT

Unexpected Turn in Mellett Assassination Aftermath.

CANTON, O., Sept. 9.—Carl Studer, now free on bond on a federal charge of liquor conspiracy, was arrested today for keeping a house of ill fame as he left the witness chair in the hearing before the Canton civil service commission of ousted Police Chief Seranus A. Lengel.

This was immediately after he had emphatically declared that he was never connected with illegitimate business in any way.

Attorney Oscar Abt, assisting in prosecuting the charges against Lengel, indicated that a perjury charge might follow against Studer.

Studer, with somewhat of an air of braggadocio, admitted his business partnership with Louis Mazer, now under indictment for first degree murder in connection with the Don R. Mellett assassination.

"We ran a pool room," Studer said.

Studer offered an explanation of his whereabouts on the night of the Mellett murder, declaring that he was with a friend and at home later in the night.

He denied that he had at any time sent Mazer money by telegraph to Detroit for a liquor transaction.

Admits Telling Many Things.

Studer admitted that he had associated with bootleggers and known law violators, naming among them one Hyman Darling of Pittsburgh, now under a penitentiary sentence for bootlegging.

MT. UNION MAN IS DROWNED IN COUNTY LAKE WHILE BATHING

Placentia, Near North Georgetown, Claims R. L. Maxwell.

VICTIM IS 20

Washington, Pa., Student Meets Death After Enrollment.

Robert L. Maxwell, 20, of Washington, Pa., a Mt. Union college student, was drowned while bathing in Lake Placentia, near North Georgetown, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His body was recovered an hour later but efforts to revive him with the use of a pulmotor, rushed from Alliance, 15 miles away, were futile.

Maxwell and three companions drove to Alliance from Washington, Pa., yesterday to enroll in Mt. Union college which opens for the fall term next week. Enroute home they stopped at Lake Placentia.

Maxwell, it is said, was unable to swim and waded out in the lake before he realized the depth of the water. His companions heard him struggling in the water but when they looked around he had disappeared.

A call was sent to the Alliance fire department and firemen, who brought the pulmotor, recovered the body with grappling hooks.

The body was removed to the Stark undertaking establishment in Salem, last night and was shipped today to Washington.

William Erlanger Recalls Days of Oil Lamp In City

Pioneer Clothier, Celebrating Forty-sixth Anniversary in Business, Came Here When Paved Streets Were Uncommon.

Forty-sixth anniversary of the William Erlanger Company store, founded when the Ceramic city had a population of 3,500, will be celebrated this month.

William Erlanger, Sr., a native of Fuerth, Bavaria, came here in August, 1880, and opened a men's clothing store in a structure at the corner of Fifth street and Broadway, known as the Knowles building. The store, known as "The Philadelphia Branch Clothing House," occupied the first and second floors. In the basement was an ice cream parlor and lunch room conducted by Frank Stone.

Most of the business of the town was centered on Second street and lower Broadway. Few streets were paved. The Erlanger store was situated in what was commonly termed the "hill district."

Canvas awnings, Mr. Erlanger recalls, were unknown and the popular method of protecting merchandise from the sun's rays was by wooden awnings. During election campaigns, the wooden awning in front of Erlanger's store was frequently decorated with Japanese lanterns, while big parades, in which green and red lights were burned, were staged by the populace.

William Brunt First Customer.

The Erlanger store was heated with a large coal stove. The light was furnished by oil lamps, about 40 of which were suspended on chandeliers from the ceiling. Two arm fixtures fitted with lamps were used for the show windows. These lamps were filled and cleaned every other day.

Isaac Knowles, owner of the building, took especial interest in Erlanger's store and introduced the proprietor to many of his friends. Among these were William Brunt, Sr., whose residence was located on the present site of the postoffice. Mr. Brunt was the store's first customer, having purchased a pair of striped worsted trousers for $4.75, Mr. Erlanger remembers.

Business at that time was conducted along lines of barter and trade, but Mr. Erlanger resolved to operate a

Francis Callahan, also of this city, was to be arraigned this afternoon. He is alleged to have signed the name of J. A. Trotter to checks which were cashed here.

Police Investigate Theft of $11 From Gladys Roush Home

Police were asked to investigate the theft of $11 belonging to Miss Gladys Roush, which was taken from her home in Sophia street at 9 o'clock last evening.

Miss Roush had placed her pocketbook containing the money on the piano in the living room early in the evening. She discovered the theft when she retired. The pocketbook was found in a box on the front porch this morning but its contents were missing.

W. C. T. U. CALLS FOR SEVERE PENALTIES FOR DRUNKEN DRIVERS AND HITS SMOKING BY TEACHERS

Stiff fines for automobile drivers convicted on charges of operating a motor vehicle while drinking intoxicating liquors and opposition to the employment of teachers in the public schools who smoke cigarettes is voiced in resolutions adopted by members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at their county convention in Wellsville, it was announced today.

The resolutions, drafted by a committee consisting of Mrs. Margaret Moore, East Liverpool; Mrs. Susie Bough, West Point, and Mrs. Margaret Bricker, Lisbon, also urge the adoption of legislation for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools, recommended "an aggressive constructive effort to preserve the sancity of the Lord's day' and pledge the support of the organization to public officials entrusted with the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

Here are the resolutions passed by a unanimous vote by members of the association:

Preamble.

"We, the women of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the 36th annual convention assembled, reverently acknowledge the triumphant leadership of God through the past year and consecrate ourselves anew to the greater task ahead—law enforcement.

"First—We call the attention of the public officials that oath of office entails upon them the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment as well as other laws and pledge our support to this end.

"Second—We go on record that an automobile driver who has been drinking intoxicating liquors, should be deprived of his license and given the minimum fine of $5 or the maximum fine of $100.

"Third—We urge aggressive conservative effort to preserve the sancity of the Lord's day—the holy Sabbath day.

"Fourth—We recommend legislation for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools that the education of our youths may be spiritual as well as intellectual.

"Fifth—We affirm that any teacher that uses cigarettes shall not be employed in our public schools.

"Sixth—We go on record as a W. C. T. U. opposing any change in the direct primary law.

"We extend our sincere thanks to the unions of Wellsville who have so splendidly provided for our comfort and entertainment; to the singers and to the trustees of this church for the use of the church and to all who have in any way contributed to the success of this convention."

This was immediately after he had emphatically declared that he was never connected with illegitimate business in any way.

Attorney Oscar Abt, assisting in prosecuting the charges against Lengel, indicated that a perjury charge might follow against Studer.

Studer, with somewhat of an air of braggadocio, admitted his business partnership with Louis Mazer, now under indictment for first degree murder in connection with the Don R. Mellett assassination.

"We ran a pool room," Studer said.

Studer offered an explanation of his whereabouts on the night of the Mellett murder, declaring that he was with a friend and at home later in the night.

He denied that he had at any time sent Mazer money by telegraph to Detroit for a liquor transaction.

Admits Telling Many Things.

Studer admitted that he had associated with bootleggers and known law violators, naming among them one Hyman Darling of Pittsburgh, now under a penitentiary sentence for bootlegging.

MT. UNION MAN IS DROWNED IN COUNTY LAKE WHILE BATHING

Placentia, Near North Georgetown, Claims R. L. Maxwell.

VICTIM IS 20

Washington, Pa., Student Meets Death After Enrollment.

Robert L. Maxwell, 20, of Washington, Pa., a Mt. Union college student, was drowned while bathing in Lake Placentia, near North Georgetown, at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon. His body was recovered an hour later but efforts to revive him with the use of a pulmotor, rushed from Alliance, 15 miles away, were futile.

Maxwell and three companions drove to Alliance from Washington, Pa., yesterday to enroll in Mt. Union college which opens for the fall term next week. Enroute home they stopped at Lake Placentia.

Maxwell, it is said, was unable to swim and waded out in the lake before he realized the depth of the water. His companions heard him struggling in the water but when they looked around he had disappeared.

A call was sent to the Alliance fire department and firemen, who brought the pulmotor, recovered the body with grappling hooks.

The body was removed to the Stark undertaking establishment in Salem, last night and was shipped today to Washington.

William Erlanger Recalls Days of Oil Lamp In City

Pioneer Clothier, Celebrating Forty-sixth Anniversary in Business, Came Here When Paved Streets Were Uncommon.

Forty-sixth anniversary of the William Erlanger Company store, founded when the Ceramic city had a population of 3,500, will be celebrated this month.

William Erlanger, Sr., a native of Fuerth, Bavaria, came here in August, 1880, and opened a men's clothing store in a structure at the corner of Fifth street and Broadway, known as the Knowles building. The store, known as "The Philadelphia Branch Clothing House," occupied the first and second floors. In the basement was an ice cream parlor and lunch room conducted by Frank Stone.

Most of the business of the town was centered on Second street and lower Broadway. Few streets were paved. The Erlanger store was situated in what was commonly termed the "hill district."

Canvas awnings, Mr. Erlanger recalls, were unknown and the popular method of protecting merchandise from the sun's rays was by wooden awnings. During election campaigns, the wooden awning in front of Erlanger's store was frequently decorated with Japanese lanterns, while big parades, in which green and red lights were burned, were staged by the populace.

William Brunt First Customer.

The Erlanger store was heated with a large coal stove. The light was furnished by oil lamps, about 40 of which were suspended on chandeliers from the ceiling. Two arm fixtures fitted with lamps were used for the show windows. These lamps were filled and cleaned every other day.

Isaac Knowles, owner of the building, took especial interest in Erlanger's store and introduced the proprietor to many of his friends. Among these were William Brunt, Sr., whose residence was located on the present site of the postoffice. Mr. Brunt was the store's first customer, having purchased a pair of striped worsted trousers for $4.75. Mr. Erlanger remembers.

Business at that time was conducted along lines of barter and trade, but Mr. Erlanger resolved to operate a

W. C. T. U. CALLS FOR SEVERE PENALTIES FOR DRUNKEN DRIVERS AND HITS SMOKING BY TEACHERS

Stiff fines for automobile drivers convicted on charges of operating a motor vehicle while drinking intoxicating liquors and opposition to the employment of teachers in the public schools who smoke cigarettes is voiced in resolutions adopted by members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union at their county convention in Wellsville, it was announced today.

The resolutions, drafted by a committee consisting of Mrs. Margaret Moore, East Liverpool; Mrs. Susie Bough, West Point, and Mrs. Margaret Bricker, Lisbon, also urge the adoption of legislation for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools, recommended "an aggressive constructive effort to preserve the sancity of the Lord's day' and pledge the support of the organization to public officials entrusted with the enforcement of the Eighteenth amendment.

Here are the resolutions passed by a unanimous vote by members of the association:

Preamble.

"We, the women of the Women's Christian Temperance Union in the 36th annual convention assembled, reverently acknowledge the triumphant leadership of God through the past year and consecrate ourselves anew to the greater task ahead—law enforcement.

"First—We call the attention of the public officials that oath of office entails upon them the enforcement of the eighteenth amendment as well as other laws and pledge our support to this end.

"Second—We go on record that an automobile driver who has been drinking intoxicating liquors, should be deprived of his license and given the minimum fine of $5 or the maximum fine of $100.

"Third—We urge aggressive conservative effort to preserve the sancity of the Lord's day—the holy Sabbath day.

"Fourth—We recommend legislation for the daily reading of the Bible in the public schools that the education of our youths may be spiritual as well as intellectual.

"Fifth—We affirm that any teacher that uses cigarettes shall not be employed in our public schools.

"Sixth—We go on record as a W. C. T. U. opposing any change in the direct primary law.

"We extend our sincere thanks to the unions of Wellsville who have so splendidly provided for our comfort and entertainment; to the singers and to the trustees of this church for the use of the church and to all who have in any way contributed to the success of this convention."

WOMAN FREED IN DEATH CASE

Wellsburg Jury Finds Husband Was Victim of Accident.

Given her freedom by a Wellsburg jury which found that Albert Graham, her husband, was shot to death accidentally, Mrs. Mabel Graham, 27, of Canton, O., returned to her home today with her mother, Mrs. Alice Fraubel, and her baby.

Graham, a former Canton Sunday school teacher, was shot and killed as he and his wife rode through the streets of Wellsburg, their former home, last Monday night.

"I didn't mean to kill Albert," the widow told the Brooke county coroner's jury. "I wouldn't have harmed him for the world. I meant to kill myself and end it all when he refused to live with me and the baby. There seemed no other way out of my trouble.

"I confess the gun was in my right hand when it exploded, because I reached down on the seat and picked it up, telling Albert, since he would not live with us, I would kill myself.

"First he tried to get possession of the gun with his right hand. When he used both hands in trying to wrest the gun from me, it exploded. I heard the report—then the crash of the machine as it went over a stone wall and that is all I remember."

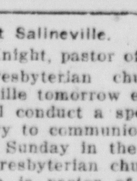
A Girl's Critical Age

READING between the lines, it takes a mother or sister to divine the needs of a girl just budding into womanhood: "My sister was not very strong and had been taking all sorts of pills and stuff for constipation. She was fourteen and of course embarrassed with pimples. So I bought her a large bottle of Syrup Pepsin. She has had no constipation since, her complexion is good and she is much stronger, healthier and happier. Now I always recommend Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin." (Name and address will be sent on request.)



Has Brought Up Entire Families

Syrup Pepsin is a mainstay from infancy to full growth. Sour, bilious stomach, headache, coated tongue, colds, feverish daily ills—all vanish. Children play right after a dose. Mothers stop their own terrible sick headache, indigestion, constipation. Makes old folks happy, contented. Truly a family medicine in its highest meaning. Get it today—any druggist, anywhere.

For a free trial bottle send name and address to Pepsin Syrup Company, Monticello, Illinois.

Three figures which mean extra motor car value

Buick motor cars are now designated by their wheelbase lengths. Series One Fifteen has 114½ inches of wheelbase. Series One Twenty is 120 inches from axle to axle, and Series One Twenty-eight measures 128 inches.

Many cars, several inches shorter than Buick and without advantages offered by Buick design, are priced considerably higher.

Compare the wheelbase length of other cars to Buick, before you spend your money.

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1926.

Death at a Grade Crossing

East Liverpool added a name to the rapidly growing total of grade crossing deaths in the United States, when Thomas Durbin, of Chester, pottery decorating shop foreman, succumbed in the City hospital last night as a result of injuries received at noon yesterday when he was run down by a Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad switch engine.

On his way back to the Thompson pottery, where he was employed, he failed to notice the approach of the locomotive as he started over the crossing at the foot of College street. He was knock down by the engine, and injuries he received forced surgeons to amputate his right leg above the knee. The shock and loss of blood proved fatal.

According to interstate commerce commission reports, a total of 2,606 deaths have occurred at grade crossings for the first five months of 1926.

This appalling toll prompts the demand for the removal of all death traps. When railroads were built in sparsely populated territories, overhead and underground crossings were unnecessary. And to remove all dangerous intersection points in a short span of years is impossible because of the time and expense.

Until the railroad companies respond to the appeal for establishment of additional safeguards at crossings, pedestrians should exercise a normal amount of caution, especially when no watchman is on duty.

Turkey And The League

The "Sick Man of Europe," as has been remarked more than once, is doing better since he left Europe to recuperate in his native Asia. The latest sign of Turkish convalescence is the application for membership in the league of nations.

Her admittance would shrink the list of important non-members to America and Russia.

Reports from Geneva say that the Turkish government, which means Mustapha Kemal, is ready to join the league if the member nations will give that country a seat on the council.

This is an ambitious request, which would have been rejected with scorn a few years ago. But the Turks have made much progress politically and economically, and they insist that they merit the honor of sitting with the big powers at Geneva because they would be "the representative of Islam."

There is still magic in that word, despite the disintegration of the old Islamic empire built up by the Turks. The religion of Mohammed has about 220,000,000 followers, about 40 per cent as many as all the Christians in the world and more than any other non-Christian sect except possibly the Confucianists. Mohammendanism, needless to say, is more dynamic than Confucianism.

It would be embarrassing to give Turkey a permanent seat in the league council after denying it to Spain. Yet Turkey has a pretty good claim to a non-permanent seat, because of the influence she can exert in Asia and Arifca, and she may obtain it.

Deadly Swimmin' Holes

Swimming time's about over, but there's something to remember for next season. The "old swimmin' hole" is dangerous.

Let the grown-ups brush aside sentimental recollections and let the kids forego the thoughtless quest of a little immediate fun, and face scientific facts.

The swimming holes may have been all right in former days, explains a health magazine, but as population grows the streams are polluted so that they become unfit to swim in. Even a pool that looks as fair to a boy's eye as it did to his father's may be full of typhoid germs or other disease-spreaders. The water, getting into the eyes, nose, ears and throat, starts serious infections. In many communities the past summer doctors have been obliged to place a ban on swimming, lest whole families become infected.

Thus the old-time swimming hole joins the moss-covered bucket in dishonorable banishment. Swimming is one of the foremost American sports, as it deserves to be. But more and more, communities not situated near large bodies of water providing hygienic bathing beaches are driven to install swimming pools whose water can be controlled to insure purity.

The New Cable

Every schoolchild knows "How Cyrus Laid the Cable" and the thrill that ran through the land when from the Old World to the New, along the bottom of the sea, came the message, "What hath God wrought?"

Just the other day there was another cable laid across the Atlantic and the American end of it hooked up in New York. Only a few spectators looked idly at the cable ship landing the sheathed wire while the nation as a whole paid no attention whatever.

It is a fine cable, too, the best yet, guaranteed to transmit eight times as much matter as any existing cable, through its use of a remarkable new material called "permalloy." That will enable the two hemispheres to say more quickly and volubly whatever they have to say to each other, which is probably a good thing, in spite of an occasional feeling that there is too much being said already.

Evidently practical men in the message-transmission business don't expect wireless to supplant wires yet for a while. The cables are expected to continue doing the heavy work, with radio to supplement them.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—I often wonder what is the final finish of those stage folk who have their fleeting moments in the spotlight because of their agility to perform this stunt or that. Many have laboured for years to reach perfection.

It may be an acrobatic dance, a clownish fall or a hazardous feat on a death defying contraption. They are usually "spotted" in the anti-climax of a revue for a season and are then heard of no more. Newer ideas relegate them to an obscurity as sudden as their rise.

There is an actor who spent four years mastering some intricate stunts on skis. He had a seven weeks engagement and the novelty wore off. He had nothing else to offer. Novelty dancers of all performers face the rockiest road.

It is a calling depending almost entirely upon the suppleness of youth. For the most expert in Terpsichorean nimbleness a five year career is a long one. A few clog and soft shoe dancers have continued into more mature years, but not many.

Toe dancers, unless particularly fortunate, suffer from arch trouble after two or three years and cannot work steadily. Recently no record of 10 acrobatic and toe dancers of five years ago could be found. It was as though the earth had swallowed them.

Indeed, with a few exceptions, no player in any branch of the profession has been able to maintain a top-notch popularity for ten years. The average is about six. Then there are finished performers with extraordinary popularity outside of New York who do "not register on Broadway.

And what becomes of the performers with the trained seal or crow, when their pets give up the ghost?

Another curiosity irking phase of Broadway life is what jazz band players talk about between tunes. They appear to be indulging the most animated conversation with occasional bits of skylarking. They are never listless when not working, and from the nature of their job they should be.

On reflection there doesn't seem to be any worker who really gets so much fun out of his job as a jazz band player. He is ever the gay piper skirling to the flashing whirl. His life is attuned to a hip-hip hooray and ting-aling-ling. I just phoned Ben Bernie to learn if a jazz player was ever late to work. "Never," he said, "they are always ahead of time."

There is a saying in the Furious Forties that so and so is "on the stuff"—which means drug addiction. Drug slavery, like misery, loves company, and this is why so many victims are netted. Narcotic agents say that never in Broadway's history were so many young and beautiful girls "falling for the stuff." They are mostly the thrill seekers caught in jaded moments and persuaded to try it just once. The tales they tell these days of drug addicts sound like those told in confession magazines.

"Hitting the pipe" or opium smoking is regarded in the Tenderloin as the least likely to form the chronic habit, and heroin is regarded as the deadliest of all narcotics inspiring crazy dreams. The confirmed addict rarely indulges in strong drink. The effects are too mild and the combination of the two is too much for the strongest.

The drug user is more than likely able to hide his habit from his closest friends. One celebrated wit has been a regular user of drugs for 25 years, and it was only recently his secret became generally known. He would stay up all night but never take a drink.

HASKIN'S LETTER

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Canda's Development.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—For many years it has been the opinion of some Americans that the United States and Canada should be joined into one great nation. In fact, in the War of 1812 there was an abortive effort to bring about a conquest. Some Canadians, also, are said to be inclined to favor a unification, but, in both cases, such parties constitute a relatively insignificant minority.

It seems highly unlikely that any such unification will take place in the next generation or in the next century, if ever, so far as an outright political juncture is concerned, but a study of the economic relations between Canada and the United States reveals that there actually has been a juncture perhaps more fundamental than political absorption.

The fact is that the United States has practically supplanted England as the chief economic ally of the Dominion of Canada and that whereas Canade for many years looked to the homeland for aid in her development she now looks to this country.

Politically, the Canadians are intensely loyal to England and regard that land as home in almost every sense of the word. The vigor and courage with which Canada rallied to the mother country in the World war strongly revealed that. But also the Canadians have always had a certain independence of spirit so far as their economic concerns go.

It will be remembered that the Dominion had a very spirited controversy with Great Britain over a tariff question some years ago. Feeling ran so high over the British government's efforts to dictate the Dominion's tariff policy that actual secession and war were threatened. Rudyard Kipling crystallized the Canadian sentiment of independence in his verses on the subject when he wrote, putting the words in the mouth of the spirit of Canada: "Daughter am I in my mother's house. But mistress in my own."

It seems as certain as anything human seems that there never will be any attempt on the part of the United States to effect a military conquest of Canada. The conquest is going on silently in another way. In 1913 of the foreign capital invested in Canade, 77 per cent was British while only 17 per cent came from the United States. Only ten years later the balance was reversed, the mother country having 42 per cent of the externally held investments while United States citizens held 52 per cent.

Large Industrial Projects.

American citizens have established large industrial projects in Canada. The automobile industry is a notable example, but lumbering, paper making, and many other industries are represented. In 1923 Canadians owned 58 per cent of the industrial plants located within her borders, the United States 31 per cent, and Great Britain only 10 per cent.

Canada is growing rapidly in wealth, due not only to native Canadian enterprise which is somewhat akin to that which has characterized Americans, but to the investments made by United States citizens. Some of the figures on Canada's growth are of surpassing interest.

The population still is small in relation to the vast territory occupied, but it shows a healthy growth. It was 7,207,000 in 1911 and 9,364,000 in 1925.

Over the same period of years the value of crops has more than trebled rising from $384,514,000 in 1911 to $1,153,395,000 in 1925. Vast acreages have been opened up, being put mostly in wheat. The mineral output has doubled, rising from $103,221,000 in 1911 to $228,440,000 in 1925. Canada has tremendous coal fields which are entirely untouched on account of lack of railroad facilities. There is an abundance of iron, also, as well as more precious metals.

Figures for 1925 are not yet available on the industries but are shown for 1923. In 1911 the capital invested in industry was $1,247,584,000 while in 1923 it had reached $3,380,322,000 and the products of the industries increased from $1,165,976,000 in 1911 to $3,051,597,000 in 1923.

The trend of the Dominion's foreign trade is especially significant. Imports for consumption in the fiscal year 1911-12 were $522,405,000 and the exports $290,224,000. In 1925-6 imports were $527,403,000 and exports $1,315,193,000. It will be seen from these figures that while the 1925 imports were less than twice those of 1911 the 1925 exports were more than four times those of 1911. In other words, Canada did not increase her purchases abroad in anything like the ratio in which she increased her sales to the outside world.

Such a situation—the whole picture of production and foreign trade—means increased wealth. Bank deposits rose from $980,434,000 in 1911 to $2,221,161,000 in 1925.

Large Railroad Milage.

One of the most remarkable developments produced by Canadian enterprise is to be found in her railroad system. She has close to 40,000 miles of railroad compared with about 250,000 miles in the United States. In other words, with considerably less than one-tenth of the population of

EAST LIVERPOOL—AMERICA'S POTTERY CENTER

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 9, 1926.

Death at a Grade Crossing

East Liverpool added a name to the rapidly growing total of grade crossing deaths in the United States, when Thomas Durbin, of Chester, pottery decorating shop foreman, succumbed in the City hospital last night as a result of injuries received at noon yesterday when he was run down by a Cleveland and Pittsburgh railroad switch engine.

On his way back to the Thompson pottery, where he was employed, he failed to notice the approach of the locomotive as he started over the crossing at the foot of College street. He was knock down by the engine, and injuries he received forced surgeons to amputate his right leg above the knee. The shock and loss of blood proved fatal.

According to interstate commerce commission reports, a total of 2,606 deaths have occurred at grade crossings for the first five months of 1926.

This appalling toll prompts the demand for the removal of all death traps. When railroads were built in sparsely populated territories, overhead and underground crossings were unnecessary. And to remove all dangerous intersection points in a short span of years is impossible because of the time and expense.

Until the railroad companies respond to the appeal for establishment of additional safeguards at crossings, pedestrians should exercise a normal amount of caution, especially when no watchman is on duty.

Turkey And The League

The "Sick Man of Europe," as has been remarked more than once, is doing better since he left Europe to recuperate in his native Asia. The latest sign of Turkish convalescence is the application for membership in the league of nations.

Her admittance would shrink the list of important non-members to America and Russia.

Reports from Geneva say that the Turkish government, which means Mustapha Kemal, is ready to join the league if the member nations will give that country a seat on the council.

This is an ambitious request, which would have been rejected with scorn a few years ago. But the Turks have made much progress politically and economically, and they insist that they merit the honor of sitting with the big powers at Geneva because they would be "the representative of Islam."

There is still magic in that word, despite the disintegration of the old Islamic empire built up by the Turks. The religion of Mohammed has about 220,000,000 followers, about 40 per cent as many as all the Christians in the world and more than any other non-Christian sect except possibly the Confucianists. Mohammendanism, needless to say, is more dynamic than Confucianism.

It would be embarrassing to give Turkey a permanent seat in the league council after denying it to Spain. Yet Turkey has a pretty good claim to a non-permanent seat, because of the influence she can exert in Asia and Arifca, and she may obtain it.

Deadly Swimmin' Holes

Swimming time's about over, but there's something to remember for next season. The "old swimmin' hole" is dangerous.

Let the grown-ups brush aside sentimental recollections and let the kids forego the thoughtless quest of a little immediate fun, and face scientific facts.

The swimming holes may have been all right in former days, explains a health magazine, but as population grows the streams are polluted so that they become unfit to swim in. Even a pool that looks as fair to a boy's eye as it did to his father's may be full of typhoid germs or other disease-spreaders. The water, getting into the eyes, nose, ears and throat, starts serious infections. In many communities the past summer doctors have been obliged to place a ban on swimming, lest whole families become infected.

Thus the old-time swimming hole joins the moss-covered bucket in dishonorable banishment. Swimming is one of the foremost American sports, as it deserves to be. But more and more, communities not situated near large bodies of water providing hygienic bathing beaches are driven to install swimming pools whose water can be controlled to insure purity.

The New Cable

Every schoolchild knows "How Cyrus Laid the Cable" and the thrill that ran through the land when from the Old World to the New, along the bottom of the sea, came the message, "What hath God wrought?"

Just the other day there was another cable laid across the Atlantic and the American end of it hooked up in New York. Only a few spectators looked idly at the cable ship landing the sheathed wire while the nation as a whole paid no attention whatever.

It is a fine cable, too, the best yet, guaranteed to transmit eight times as much matter as any existing cable, through its use of a remarkable new material called "permalloy." That will enable the two hemispheres to say more quickly and volubly whatever they have to say to each other, which is probably a good thing, in spite of an occasional feeling that there is too much being said already.

Evidently practical men in the message-transmission business don't expect wireless to supplant wires yet for a while. The cables are expected to continue doing the heavy work, with raido to supplement them.

The Toonerville Trolley That Meets All The Trains— By Fontaine Fox

NEW YORK DAYBYDAY

By O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—I often wonder what is the final finish of those stage folk who have their fleeting moments in the spotlight because of their agility to perform this stunt or that. Many have laboured for years to reach perfection.

It may be an acrobatic dance, a clownish fall or a hazardous feat on a death defying contraption. They are usually "spotted" in the anti-climax of a revue for a season and are then heard of no more. Newer ideas relegate them to an obscurity as sudden as their rise.

There is an actor who spent four years mastering some intricate stunts on skis. He had a seven weeks engagement and the novelty wore off. He had nothing else to offer. Novelty dancers of all performers face the rockiest road.

It is a calling depending almost entirely upon the suppleness of youth. For the most expert in Terpsichorean nimbleness a five year career is a long one. A few clog and soft shoe dancers have continued into more mature years, but not many.

Toe dancers, unless particularly fortunate, suffer from arch trouble after two or three years and cannot work steadily. Recently no record of 10 acrobatic and toe dancers of five years ago could be found. It was as though the earth had swallowed them.

Indeed, with a few exceptions, no player in any branch of the profession has been able to maintain a top-notch popularity for ten years. The average is about six. Then there are finished performers with extraordinary popularity outside of New York who do "not register on Broadway.

And what becomes of the performers with the trained seal or crow, when their pets give up the ghost?

Another curiosity irking phase of Broadway life is what jazz band players talk about between tunes. They appear to be indulging the most animated conversation with occasional bits of skylarking. They are never listless when not working, and from the nature of their job they should be.

On reflection there doesn't seem to be any worker who really gets so much fun out of his job as a jazz band player. He is ever the gay piper skirling to the flashing whirl. His life is attuned to a hip-hip hooray and ting-aling-ling. I just phoned Ben Bernie to learn if a jazz player was ever late to work. "Never," he said, "they are always ahead of time."

There is a saying in the Furious Forties that so and so is "on the stuff"—which means drug addiction. Drug slavery, like misery, loves company, and this is why so many victims are netted. Narcotic agents say that never in Broadway's history were so many young and beautiful girls "falling for the stuff." They are mostly the thrill seekers caught in jaded moments and persuaded to try it just once. The tales they tell these days of drug addicts sound like those told in confession magazines.

"Hitting the pipe" or opium smoking is regarded in the Tenderloin as the least likely to form the chronic habit, and heroin is regarded as the deadliest of all narcotics inspiring crazy dreams. The confirmed addict rarely indulges in strong drink. The effects are too mild and the combination of the two is too much for the strongest.

The drug user is more than likely able to hide his habit from his closest friends. One celebrated wit has been a regular user of drugs for 25 years, and it was only recently his secret became generally known. He would stay up all night but never take a drink.

HASKIN'S LETTER

Canda's Development.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 9.—For many years it has been the opinion of some Americans that the United States and Canada should be joined into one great nation. In fact in the War of 1812 there was an abortive effort to bring about a conquest. Some Canadians, also, are said to be inclined to favor a unification, but, in both cases, such parties constitute a relatively insignificant minority.

It seems highly unlikely that any such unification will take place in the next generation or in the next century, if ever, so far as an outright political juncture is concerned, but a study of the economic relations between Canada and the United States reveals that there actually has been a juncture perhaps more fundamental than political absorption.

The fact is that the United States has practically supplanted England as the chief economic ally of the Dominion of Canada and that whereas Canade for many years looked to the homeland for aid in her development she now looks to this country.

Politically, the Canadians are intensely loyal to England and regard that land as home in almost every sense of the word. The vigor and courage with which Canada rallied to the mother country in the World war strongly revealed that. Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by the great information bureau maintained by The Review & Tribune in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in stamps for return postage, and address The East Liverpool Review & Tribune Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Are sparrows or robins more numerous in New England? A. B.

A. A survey that has been made in the Northeastern States shows that the most abundant bird on farms is the robin; next to this the English sparrow; and following these are catbird, brown thrasher, house wren, kingbird, and blue bird, in the order named.

Q. Has Will H. Hays' contract been renewed? R. J.

A. His contract as president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America Inc. has been renewed for ten years. Since his present contract has more than a year to run, the next one will expire in 1937.

Q. Do any hay fever cases ever develop their attacks from certain foods? S. T. S.

A. It has been observed that this does happen. Among the foods that have been known to cause hay fever attacks in certain cases are fish, shellfish, meats, wheat flour, eggs, lettuce, Worcestershire sauce and watermelons.

Q. How much did it cost to build the Capitol in Washington B. E. T.

A. As now completed it cost over $16,000,000.

Q. Where is the Island of Death? G. T. T.

A. This is a name given to a rock formation or islet just off Corfu named Potikonese. According to tradition it was once a Phaeacian ship which returning after landing Odysseus at Ithaca was turned to stone by Poseidon and anchored forever to the floor of the "wine dark" sea. The island is the subject of a painting by Arnold Boecklin in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Q. In playing Auction is it permissible ever to make an original bid on a five-card suit that is not headed by an Ace or King? N. D.

A. Auction Bridge authorities sanction an initial suit-bid of one on a five-card suit headed by the Queen and Jack, or by the Queen and Ten, provided there are two quick tricks in the hand, or on a five-card suit headed by the Jack and Ten, provided there are three quick tricks in the hand.

Q. How long has the term Bolsheviki been applied to the Russian party? A. M.

A. There appears to be no evidence that this term and Mensheviki were current before 1903, but by 1905 they were definitely applied to the Russian parties.

Q. What percentage of the women of this country are unmarried? T. T. P.

A. Of the 35,177,515 females in the United States as shown by the 1920 census that are fifteen years of age or over, 27.3 per cent were single, 60.6 per cent were married, 11.1 per cent were widowed, and 0.8 per cent were divorced.

Q. How is the width of a railroad track measured to determine whether it is standard gauge or narrow gauge? H. B. M.

A. The standard gauge of railways is 4 feet 8 1-2 inches, measured from the inside of one rail to the inside of the opposite rail about five-eights of an inch below the top of the rail head. Narrow gauge railroads of 3 or 3 1-2 feet are measured between the top centers of the rails.

Q. What is meant by Flemish bond? G. N. H.

A. In masonry it is the name given to brick laid up in alternate headers and stretchers. This style was very popular with early American brick layers.

Q. Please advise me of a way to produce real lightning on a stage. G. McG.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that to produce realistic lightning discharges would require too much apparatus and in addition would be dangerous. By means of a carbon arc and a suitable shutter, the appearance of lightning flashes off stage can readily be produced, but to imitate an actual lightning flash where the streak could be observed by the audience, is a much more difficult matter.

Q. Q. Please relate the story of the composition of "Rock of Ages." I. V. C.

A. According to the story, Wesley, the great leader and hymn writer, and Toplady, the Anglican churchman met and were drawn into a very heated argument over some current theological questions. They argued until long after midnight. Neither yielded a point. When they separated, Toplady was wrought up to a high state of spiritual excitement. Not being able to sleep he sat and thought. In a moment of exaltation the words of the hymn "Rock of Ages" began to some to his mind. He began to write. Before dawn he had produced this master hymn.

Q. Hoy many chapters are there in "The Book of the Dead?- J. M.

A. There are 106 chapters. It is the chief monument of the religious literature of Egypt.

Q. What was the limerick that Woodrow Wilson used to quote about his own looks? G. R. C.

A. "For beauty I am not a star. There are others more handsome by far; My face, I don't mind it For I am behind it, It's the people in front that I jar."

Answers to Questions

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

The answers to questions printed here each day are specimens picked from the mass of inquiries handled by the great information bureau maintained by The Review & Tribune in Washington, D. C. This valuable service is for the free use of the public. Ask any question of fact you may want to know and you will get an immediate reply. Write plainly, enclose two cents in stamps for return postage, and address The East Liverpool Review & Tribune Information Bureau, Frederick J. Haskin, Director, Washington, D. C.

Q. Are sparrows or robins more numerous in New England? A. B.

A. A survey that has been made in the Northeastern States shows that the most abundant bird on farms is the robin; next to this the English sparrow; and following these are catbird, brown thrasher, house wren, kingbird, and blue bird, in the order named.

Q. Has Will H. Hays' contract been renewed? R. J.

A. His contract as president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America Inc. has been renewed for ten years. Since his present contract has more than a year to run, the next one will expire in 1937.

Q. Do any hay fever cases ever develop their attacks from certain foods? S. T. S.

A. It has been observed that this does happen. Among the foods that have been known to cause hay fever attacks in certain cases are fish, shellfish, meats, wheat flour, eggs, lettuce, Worcestershire sauce and watermelons.

Q. How much did it cost to build the Capitol in Washington B. E. T.

A. As now completed it cost over $16,000,000.

Q. Where is the Island of Death? G. T. T.

A. This is a name given to a rock formation or islet just off Corfu named Potikonese. According to tradition it was once a Phaeacian ship which returning after landing Odysseus at Ithaca was turned to stone by Poseidon and anchored forever to the floor of the "wine dark" sea. The island is the subject of a painting by Arnold Boecklin in the Metropolitan Museum of Art.

Q. In playing Auction is it permissible ever to make an original bid on a five-card suit that is not headed by an Ace or King? N. D.

A. Auction Bridge authorities sanction an initial suit-bid of one on a five-card suit headed by the Queen and Jack, or by the Queen and Ten, provided there are two quick tricks in the hand, or on a five-card suit headed by the Jack and Ten, provided there are three quick tricks in the hand.

Q. How long has the term Bolsheviki been applied to the Russian party? A. M.

A. There appears to be no evidence that this term and Mensheviki were current before 1903, but by 1905 they were definitely applied to the Russian parties.

Q. What percentage of the women of this country are unmarried? T. T. P.

A. Of the 35,177,515 females in the United States as shown by the 1920 census that are fifteen years of age or over, 27.3 per cent were single, 60.6 per cent were married, 11.1 per cent were widowed, and 0.8 per cent were divorced.

Q. How is the width of a railroad track measured to determine whether it is standard gauge or narrow gauge? H. B. M.

A. The standard gauge of railways is 4 feet 8 1-2 inches, measured from the inside of one rail to the inside of the opposite rail about five-eights of an inch below the top of the rail head. Narrow gauge railroads of 3 or 3 1-2 feet are measured between the top centers of the rails.

Q. What is meant by Flemish bond? G. N. H.

A. In masonry it is the name given to brick laid up in alternate headers and stretchers. This style was very popular with early American brick layers.

Q. Please advise me of a way to produce real lightning on a stage. G. McG.

A. The Bureau of Standards says that to produce realistic lightning discharges would require too much apparatus and in addition would be dangerous. By means of a carbon arc and a suitable shutter, the appearance of lightning flashes off stage can readily be produced, but to imitate an actual lightning flash where the streak could be observed by the audience, is a much more difficult matter.

Q. Q. Please relate the story of the composition of "Rock of Ages." I. V. C.

A. According to the story, Wesley, the great leader and hymn writer, and Toplady, the Anglican churchman met and were drawn into a very heated argument over some current theological questions. They argued until long after midnight. Neither yielded a point. When they separated, Toplady was wrought up to a high state of spiritual excitement. Not being able to sleep he sat and thought. In a moment of exaltation the words of the hymn "Rock of Ages" began to some to his mind. He began to write. Before dawn he had produced this master hymn.

If Tired, Worn-Out, Weak and Run-Down Regain Vigor Thru Gland Treatment

GLAND secretions are called hormones — mysterious messengers which science has discovered exert a remarkable influence on health, strength and vitality.

When the glands function normally, they supply these vitalizing hormones (or secretions) which are essential to physical well-being. And when the glands fail to function, health fails.

Now, glandular treatment, which is indorsed by eminent scientists and physicians of this country and Europe, is being used by thousands of men and women to help overcome a weakened, worn-out, run-down, exhausted condition and to regain the strength, vigor and vitality that are the natural benefits resulting from a normal glandular system.

Glandogen, the new scientific gland tonic, provides a simple method of taking glandular treatment Glandogen is prepared to convenient tablet form, for both men and women. Accept no substitutes, insist on genuine Glandogen, the original gland tonic.

BOOK TWO—III.

Five minutes of three.

The railroad station houses a gathering strictly stag. The platform groans with the tramp and stamp of young masculine impatience, and is animate with trouser-legs as wide as bolster-cases. Hundreds of boys are there, collegians, recognizable anywhere by their clothes, and the tilt of their hats, and the just-tubbed look, and their air of insouciance and irresponsibility and "what-the-hell-do-we-care-now." One senses light hearts and heavy hip pockets. They stand in groups, talking, or sit on baggage-trucks and swing their red-shod feet, or lean against posts and stare raptly into space, or rush about with such busy haste that their unbuttoned coats curve on the air behind them like raccoon wigwams. They laugh, and whistle, and bawl forth jibes and aphorisms. They only thing they do not do is the thing they unanimously want to do—walk out on the tracks and peer for the train. They do not do this because they deem it "kid stuff," the natural trick of a youngster about to be taken on the choo-choo to see Grandma. He who succumbed, and did it, would "get the razz." A number of them have cornered the ticket agent, a nervous individual with a taffy-candy mustache, and are telling him something in low solemn tones. He is listening sheepishly, and rather suspiciously, and saying "Aw!" and "Aw, git out!" and "Aw, g'wan!"

Three o'clock.

There is a crackling electric tension in the air—then a cheer, and a general surge toward the plattform's edge. The locomotive blows its warm quick breath against their faces, crashes past, stops. Strings of girls begin to spill from every coach. Magagine cover-girls, these. Lovely laughing girls in furry coats and bright hats and wee ridiculous slippers. Blonde girls and dark, tall girls and tiny, all shapely and delicately tinted sweet with perfume. Each poses an instant on the train steps, to look and to be looked at. . . then becomes a part of the crowd, and jostles, and grows breathless, and cries at last, "Oh, there you are!" . . . and is hailed happily, and seized, and borne away. . . . .

Prom, glittering pageant of a glittering age, has begun.

IV.

"And how's Molly?"

"Oh, fine, Jock, and so glad to be here!"

The roadster was parked at the rear of the station. Jock assisted Molly to it and into it, stowed away her luggage, then slid in himself over the side and slouched down beside here. "We'll have to wait a minute," he remarked. "I promised Bones we'd take him and his girl up with us."

They smiled at one another, Molly meaningly and personally, Jock in a casual sort of way. "She's all right for a prom," he told himself. "Clothes, and looks, and an awfully good dancer. If only she doesn't start talking like an idiot—Oh Lord, she's going to!" he finished. He knew that preliminary flicker of the lashes.

"Jock," said Molly softly, "there were a million girls on that train, and I felt so superior to all of them, you can't imagine, because they were coming to the prom with just any old boy and I was coming with you. Oh, Jock, I'm so glad to be here—say you're a little glad to have me—"

The timely reappearance of Bones at this instant spared the necessity of a reply. He wore a fatuous grin, and by one arm he guided a slender, graceful girl with greenish eyes and commas of yellow hair sweeping out onto her cheeks below a green hat. Jock identified her as the original of the favorite photograph in Bones' collection.

"Norma, this is the roommate, Jock Hamill—don't believe anything he tells you about me. Miss Norma Knight, Jock. You know—the one I talk in my sleep about—"

Jock completed the mutual introductions, and observed that the two girls met with an instant hostility, only thinly veiled. "All prom-girls hate all other prom-girls," he made a mental note.

The ride up the hill to the fraternity house was accomplished in short order, and the girls escorted inside. There was a momentary pause in the lower hall while they squealed admiringly, in chorus, "Oh, isn't this darling!"—as was expected of them. Then Jock and Bones showed the way upstairs and to their room.

"Don't take long, you two," Bones commanded when they had set down numerous suitcases and were preparing to withdraw. "There's an interfraternity tea dance at the Union at four o'clock, and you have to meet everybody and lap up a couple of cocktails apiece between now and then."

"We'll be down in ten minutes," promised Norma Knight.

"I'll be ready in five," added Molly, not to be outdone.

Jock and Bones descended the stairs again and encountered Dopey Lane and his girl just entering. Dopey presented them mournfully.

"Jock Hamill, Cecily Graves. And Bones Allen."

Jock's first thought was that she ought to put cold cream, or whatever it was they usually put, on her hands. The one that he took in greeting was rough and chapped. But it gave a firm pressure, and he liked that. Shaking hands with some girls was like gripping a listless bit of cotton batting.

"Hello, Miss Graves."

"How-do-you-do?"

Tinkling silver voice. But he saw that aside from the voice and the handclasp and a certain fundamental prettiness, Cecily Graves was all wrong. Her clothes were wrong, and the way she wore them was wrong, and even the silence that followed her "How-do-you-do" was wrong. Girls ought to say something more, immediately. When they did not they gave you an impression of timidity and stupidity—of either not knowing anything more to say, or of being too embarrassed to say it, or both. Jock decided that it was embarrassment in Cecily. Whatever else you might think of her, she didn't look stupid. Too bright a glint in the brown eyes for that.

"See you later," Dopey nodded, and conducted her past them toward the stairway.

"Gee, he did pick a quince, didn't he?" muttered Bones.

Jock looked thoughtful. "I believe I kind of like her," he said. And added, as Bones stared incredulously, "Anyway, I'm sorry for the poor little kid."

MAN AND WIFE KILL SELVES IN WASHINGTON

Suicide Pact Carried Out in Willard Hotel Room.

POISON AGENCY

Leave Letters Expressing "Regret;" Ask Cremation of Bodies.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—A fashionably dressed, middle-aged couple, registered as Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Doyle, of Brooklyn, carried out a suicide pact in a room at the Willard hotel here today.

Poison, or an overdose of some powerful drug, the police are not certain which, was the agency they employed.

Their pact had evidently been carefully planned, for letters were left on a table in their room, one to the manager of the hotel, another to the chief of police of Washington, expressing regret at the "trouble" caused, and asking that the bodies be cremated. Even the hotel servants were remembered, as a sum of money was left in an envelope, with directions that it be distributed to those who had served them.

Phone Call First Intimation.

Further evidence of the careful deliberation that preceded their act was that they had written a letter yesterday to a Mr. Halsey in Brooklyn, apprising him of their intention.

The first intimation the hotel had of anything amiss was a long distance telephone call from Brooklyn this morning from Halsey, inquiring whether Mr. and Mrs. Doyle were dead. He said he had a letter delivered this morning in which they stated their intention of dying together.

N. A. Tyler, assistant manager of the hotel, found Mrs. Doyle lying full length on the bed, fully clothed, and dead. The man was seated in a chair facing the woman, also fully clothed. There was no indication of a struggle.

Dr. D. W. Prentiss said the couple had been dead four or five hours. They registered early yesterday.

UPSHAW LOSES GEORGIA RACE

Militant Dry Leader Defeated in Fight for Congress.

ATLANTA, Sept. 9.—Congressman William D. Upshaw, militant dry leader, was defeated in the Georgia Democratic primary Wednesday by Leslie J. Steele, prominent lawyer of Decatur, Ga.

Returns today showed Upshaw ran second in the heated three-cornered contest with Mayor Walter Sims of Atlanta third.

Senator Walter F. George was renominated by an overwhelming majority, defeating his opponent Richard B. Russell, chief justice of the Georgia supreme court, who attacked George for his support of the world court proposal.

A run-off appeared likely today in the gubernatorial race. Neither Dr. L. G. Hardman nor John N. Holder has secured a majority of the county unit votes, necessary under Georgia primary laws. Hardman was leading Holder and his two other opponents on the basis of fairly complete returns.

FANATICISM HIT BY PRIEST

Rev. W. J. Ready, Cleveland, Speaks at Kiwanis Meet.

Hitting fanaticism, whether in religion or business, as one of the most outstanding impediments to individual and community progress, Rev. Walter J. Ready, Cleveland priest, delivered an inspirational address to approximately 50 members of the Kiwanis club at their noon luncheon meeting today in the Larkins' restaurant annex.

President C. C. Cline, in charge of the meeting, first introduced Rev. E. B. Conry, of Salineville, who, after a few remarks, in turn introduced the Cleveland clergyman.

Announcement was made by President Cline of the sixth district club meeting which will be held on Thursday, September 16, at Alliance, beginning at 6:30 p. m.

Club members were also invited to attend the Kiwanis state convention which will be held in Columbus over a period of three days, September 20, 21 and 22.

"Religion alone does not foster fanatics, although sometimes we are wont to think of religion when the term 'fanatic' is brought to our attention," said Father Ready. In his address he urged respect for the thoughts and views of others, whether in religious or business life.

Liverpool, were the crew in charge of the interurban car.

George Culp, 45, of Wellsville, was the motorman and R. M. White, 25, St. George street, was the conductor on the work train.

Interurban Car Crowded.

The interurban car was en route from East Liverpool to Steubenville. As it rounded a sharp curve near King's crossing the chemical car, which had been stopped a few minutes before, was seen and before Guy could bring his car to a stop, it crashed into the other.

A small flat car which was attached to the chemical car was driven half way through the passenger car by the impact. The roof of the interurban was ripped off and parts of the car were knocked several hundred feet.

The interurban car was crowded with workmen. Guy, Emery and Slee, who were on the front platform of the passenger car, were caught between the two cars and crushed. Rescuers worked for almost a half hour before they were able to free the three men.

Ran Past Block, Belief.

After being freed the three men were rushed to the hospital in a private automobile.

According to officials of the traction company, the chemical car had been stopped by its employes to spray disinfectant on weeds alongside the tracks. A block signal was thrown, the officials said, by the workmen on the chemical car when that car was stopped. The workmen had been there only a few minutes when the accident occurred.

According to Steubenville reports, is is believed the motorman of the interurban unintentionally ran past the block.

Both cars were complete wrecks. Parts of them were strewn along the tracks for hundreds of feet, while a part of the roof of the passenger car was found several hundred feet away in a field.

When word of the accident reached Steubenville the traction company officials sent several ambulances and over a score of doctors to the scene to give first aid to the injured.

COOLIDGE MAY LOSE CAPITOL HILL CONTROL

Insurgent-Democratic Coalition Has Upper Hand in Senate.

REGULARS LOSE

Maximum Republican Strength, on Paper, is 55.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.— The Coolidge administration, for all practical purposes, already has lost control of the next senate.

There have been sufficent casualties among the regular or stalwart Republicans in the primaries to date to insure the balance of power being held by insurgents, with actual control vested in a coalition of these insurgents with the Democrats whenever they care to combine and exercise it.

This will be true irrespective of whether the Democrats win a single seat north of the Mason-Dixon line in November—and if there is any sizeable drift to the Democrats in northern states eight weeks hence even the paper majority of the Republicans will disappear.

Analysis of Primaries.

Analysis today of the primaries held thus far made these facts indisputable. The defeat of Senator Lenroot in Wisconsin, despite his being singled out for conspicuous personal endorsement by President Coolidge, was a particularly severe blow. It virtually insures two insurgent senators from Wisconsin in the seventieth congress, LaFollette and Blaine. Even in the palmy days of the elder LaFollette there was always one regular from Wisconsin.

The maximum Republican strength, on paper, in the next senate is 55, and to have that they must win every senatorial election outside of the solid south. But in that 55 there will be LaFollette and Blaine of Wisconsin, Frazier and Nye of North Dakota, Howell and Norris of Nebraska and Brookhart of Iowa—who voted more often against the White House than with it. There are also Borah of Idaho, Johnson of California, Norbeck and McMaster of South Dakota, and Couzens of Michigan, and while not as openly insurgent as the other grop, are very independent in their voting, and are impervious to the party whip.

The Democrats are jubilant, for they believe they can pick up several seats in November north of the Mason-Dixon line. They point to such spots as Oregon, where Senator Stanfield, defeated for renomination in the Republican primary, has announced his independent candidacy against the Republican who defeated him, Frederick Steiwar. To the Democrats, as well as to Republican leaders, this spells a split Republican vote and the probable election of Bert E. Haney, a Democrat, who defied President Coolidge a year ago to oust him from the U. S. shipping board.

Democrats Hopeful.

The Democrats are correspondingly hopeful about New York, where factional fighting among the Republicans, they believe, enormously strengthens the chances of defeating Senator Wadsworth. In Maryland, too, they believe they have a chance, and in Kentucky, Massachusetts, Missouri and Ohio.

The situation, in the new senate, promises to be very embarrassing for the Republicans in many ways, but more particularly in the issue that will be presented in the seating or unseating of Col. Frank L. Smith of Illinois, and William S. Vare of Pennsylvania, provided they are elected as expected.

Police Surround Bandits Who Steal Gems Worth $500,000

BUCKLEY, Ill., Sept. 9.—The three Illinois Central railroad jewelry bandits were captured by a posse in a barn near here this morning.

ONARGA, Ill., Sept. 9.—Three bandits who robbed jewelry salesmen on an Illinois Central train of gems worth $500,000 last night are surrounded by a posse in a mud-soaked and partially inundated cornfield on the outskirts of this town, according to a report received by police here from Sheriff John Gray of Champaign county.

The attacking party, according to Gray, its leader, is waiting reinforcements before closing in.

one price store which method of dealing was an innovation.

Changed Name of Firm.

In 1886 Josiah Thompson erected the three-story building at the southwest corner of Fifth and Washington streets, now occupied by the Erlanger store. A year later Mr. Erlanger leased the first floor and basement. At the same time he dropped the name of "The Philadelphia Branch Clothing House" and used his own name in conducting the business. This building was later purchased by M. E. Golding, the present owner. A few years after The Erlanger store was moved into this building, the second floor was leased.

Shortly before the store changed its location Mr. Erlanger returned to Bavaria and when he returned to the United States he was accompanied by his nephew, William Erlanger, Jr., then 17 years of age. The younger William Erlanger entered his uncle's store and later was taken into partnership when the name of the establishment was changed to the William Erlanger Company.

William Erlanger Sr., disposed of his interests in the East Liverpool store to William Erlanger, Jr., and Bert Erlanger in 1912. They are still conducting the business. The elder Erlanger went to Canton and at the present is president of the Stark Dry Goods company, one of Canton's largest establishments.

Launch Anniversary Sale.

The new owners leased the rear part of the present building, then occupied by the W. A. Weaver Company, wholesale grocers, in 1914 in order to take care of the rapidly growing business. The men's and boy's clothing departments were enlarged and recently new lines of merchandise such as women's dresses and millinery, underwear, sweaters, gloves, hosiery, infant's wear, dry goods, house furnishings and toys have been added, making the store one of the most up-to-date in eastern Ohio.

To commemorate the 46th anniversary of the store's establishment in East Liverpool, a gigantic sale will be launched when the doors open Friday morning. Bargain prices in all lines of merchandise, including goods which have been received for the fall trade, will prevail.

"The William Erlanger Company will continue the same honest business methods in the future that have made this store so popular in the past," said Bert Erlanger today. "We promise every one a square deal. It is our aim to grow bigger and better as the years roll on.

"The owners of this store wish to thank, on this, our 46th anniversary, our thousands of friends and customers who have been so instrumental in building up a business of which we have just cause to be proud."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The reactionary trend in the industrial stocks which featured the close of Wednesday's market was carried over into the early trading today. With few exceptions stocks were offered for sale in large volume and the trend of prices was distinctly downward from the start. The railroad stocks and motors sustained moderate losses, while liquidation in the oil stocks prevented any advances in that section of the market.

Bullish forces in the speculative market met with further disappointment in the 5 per cent call money renewal rate. Rumors in the financial district were to the effect that Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia reserve banks would advance their rediscount rates to 4½ per cent, signalizing the entrance of a tighter money market situation.

In the specialty stocks Warner Brothers advanced 4 points to 57 in continuance of the sensational rise which has brought the stock up from 12½ in about six weeks, and Radio sold above 51 on prospects of a profitable fall season.

Final rehearsal for the Biblical pageant, "Book of Ruth," to be presented in the high school auditorium Friday afternoon and evening under auspices of the Young Women's Missionary society of the First Methodist Protestant church, will be held tonight. The pageant is being directed by Mrs. Amelia Wilson of California.

Brilliant lighting effects, colorful oriental costumes, exquisite posing, customs and habits of Jewish people centuries old and still observed by the residents of Palestine, all set forth to the accompaniment of beautiful music, are presented in the pageant. Many of the costumes were brought from the Holy Land by Mrs. Wilson who was field secretary to Dr. Allen Moore, noted authority on dress and customs.

The matinee performance for adults as well as children will start at 4 o'clock, while the evening show will begin at 8:15 o'clock.

Police Surround Bandits Who Steal Gems Worth $500,000

BUCKLEY, Ill., Sept. 9.—The three Illinois Central railroad jewelry bandits were captured by a posse in a barn near here this morning.

ONARGA, Ill., Sept. 9.—Three bandits who robbed jewelry salesmen on an Illinois Central train of gems worth $500,000 last night are surrounded by a posse in a mud-soaked and partially inundated cornfield on the outskirts of this town, according to a report received by police here from Sheriff John Gray of Champaign county.

The attacking party, according to Gray, its leader, is waiting reinforcements before closing in.

one price store which method of dealing was an innovation.

Changed Name of Firm.

In 1886 Josiah Thompson erected the three-story building at the southwest corner of Fifth and Washington streets, now occupied by the Erlanger store. A year later Mr. Erlanger leased the first floor and basement. At the same time he dropped the name of "The Philadelphia Branch Clothing House" and used his own name in conducting the business. This building was later purchased by M. E. Golding, the present owner. A few years after The Erlanger store was moved into this building, the second floor was leased.

Shortly before the store changed its location Mr. Erlanger returned to Bavaria and when he returned to the United States he was accompanied by his nephew, William Erlanger, Jr., then 17 years of age. The younger William Erlanger entered his uncle's store and later was taken into partnership when the name of the establishment was changed to the William Erlanger Company.

William Erlanger Sr., disposed of his interests in the East Liverpool store to William Erlanger, Jr., and Bert Erlanger in 1912. They are still conducting the business. The elder Erlanger went to Canton and at the present is president of the Stark Dry Goods company, one of Canton's largest establishments.

Launch Anniversary Sale.

The new owners leased the rear part of the present building, then occupied by the W. A. Weaver Company, wholesale grocers, in 1914 in order to take care of the rapidly growing business. The men's and boy's clothing departments were enlarged and recently new lines of merchandise such as women's dresses and millinery, underwear, sweaters, gloves, hosiery, infant's wear, dry goods, house furnishings and toys have been added, making the store one of the most up-to-date in eastern Ohio.

To commemorate the 46th anniversary of the store's establishment in East Liverpool, a gigantic sale will be launched when the doors open Friday morning. Bargain prices in all lines of merchandise, including goods which have been received for the fall trade, will prevail.

"The William Erlanger Company will continue the same honest business methods in the future that have made this store so popular in the past," said Bert Erlanger today. "We promise every one a square deal. It is our aim to grow bigger and better as the years roll on.

"The owners of this store wish to thank, on this, our 46th anniversary, our thousands of friends and customers who have been so instrumental in building up a business of which we have just cause to be proud."

REPORTS FROM STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The reactionary trend in the industrial stocks which featured the close of Wednesday's market was carried over into the early trading today. With few exceptions stocks were offered for sale in large volume and the trend of prices was distinctly downward from the start. The railroad stocks and motors sustained moderate losses, while liquidation in the oil stocks prevented any advances in that section of the market.

Bullish forces in the speculative market met with further disappointment in the 5 per cent call money renewal rate. Rumors in the financial district were to the effect that Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia reserve banks would advance their rediscount rates to 4½ per cent, signalizing the entrance of a tighter money market situation.

In the specialty stocks Warner Brothers advanced 4 points to 57 in continuance of the sensational rise which has brought the stock up from 12½ in about six weeks, and Radio sold above 51 on prospects of a profitable fall season.

Ben Lyon and May McAvoy Featured At The American

Create Amazing Ballroom Jungle for "The Savage," First National's Great Picture.

One of the most elaborate sets that has ever graced a First National pictures is seen in "The Savage," now showing at the American theatre.

The set was designed by Milton Menasco, art director for the Eastern units of First National, and just about presents the last word in jungle scenes. If a person were suddenly to awake in the middle of this set he might well think he had been transported during his sleep to an island far below the equator.

Cocoanut trees, jungle growth, monkeys chattering in the tree tops, a sparkling stream of water pouring down over the rocks and finally disappearing in the thick jungle growth in a small stream, wild animals darting here and there—but are but a few of the sights to be seen in this magnificent setting.

It is here that one of the most colorful scenes of the picture was staged. It is a jungle ball. About one hundred extras were used in this scene, in which many innovations have been introduced, one of which is a monkey orchestra perched in the tree tops furnishing the music for the dancers, who are all attired in the skin of some wild animal.

It was solely for this jungle ball that this set was constructed. The exteriors of the picture were filmed later in the lower end of Florida, where the units went aboard a specially chartered yacht.

Ben Lyon is seen in this picture in the title role of the Savage. He spent a full month developing a beard and shaggy hair especially for the occasion, and at the start of the picture he needed little aid from the make-up man to look the part.

That curl, that fluff, that sheen in my hair are due to no expert care. I never go to a hairdresser, never have a Marcel wave. My work on the stage allows no time for that.

I simply apply twice weekly a hair dress which great experts made for me. I call it my Wave and Sheen. To that my curly, abundant, glossy hair is due.

It will be a joy to you—I promise that. My guarantee comes with each bottle. Unless your hair beauty is doubled in an hour, I'll return the cost.

All toilet counters supply Edna Wallace Hopper's Wave and Sheen at 75c per bottle. Go try it now.

The transcript in the case of the Walton School of Commerce, Chicago, Ill., tried in the court of Justice Bonsall at Salem, against Michael Hoprick has been filed in common pleas court, an appeal having been taken by the defendant.

Hoprick, who is unable to read or write English, has his name attached to a contract, which is in the form of a note, to take a correspondence course of study, and he claims the signature was obtained by fraud. The case was tried to a jury Aug. 6 and a verdict for the plaintiff for $222 was rendered.

The plaintiffs, through their counsel, C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, have set up the claim that the lease given May 28, 1917, and which expired May 28, 1922, has been refused cancellation. The lease covered 20 acres of land in section 21, Knox township.

TAX RECEIPTS HIT $2,780,000

Valuations in County More Than Doubled in 20 Years.

Tax valuations in Columbiana county have practically more than doubled during the last 20 years, according to County Treasurer Jo Pike.

The June tax settlement sheet is now being prepared, and the December and June collection reveal the receipt of more than $2,780,000.

When Miss Pike entered the treasurer's office as a clerk the annual collection was around $1,000,000.

While there has been a steady growth in the county during the last decade, councils of the various corporations, township trustees and boards of education have been receiving greater funds because of local growth.

Collection of special assessments this year has resulted in various districts receiving additional funds.

The June settlement sheet is expected to be completed within the next two weeks.

Licensed to Wed.

A marriage license has been issued to H. N. Herrington of East Palestine, employed as a pottery worker, and Lela Harding of East Palestine, a widow, and formerly residing at Rogers.

INHERITANCE TAX DISBURSED

East Liverpool, With $18,741.80, Tops County List.

East Liverpool corporation received more money from the last inheritance tax settlement than any other taxing district in the county, it was announced today by County Auditor Elmer E. Walker. Lisbon was second, with Washingtonville in last place.

Warrants are now being forwarded the county corporations.

Amounts to be paid are as follows:

State of Ohio	$19,285.21
Center township	85.78
Fairfield township	81.83
West township	15.36
Knox township	66.96
Elkrun township	35.25
Butler township	45.18
Salem city	528.39
Wellsville city	415.54
East Liverpool city	18,741.80
Columbiana corporation	187.64
Lisbon village	1,126.11
Leetonia corporation	197.63
Washingtonville corporation	7.62

County fund (probate fee fund)	5.00
County fund (auditor's fee fund)	1,314.57
County fund (treasurer's fee fund)	438.19

The law provides that one half of the inheritance tax received by a municipal corporation shall be credited to the sinking fund and the remainder to the general fund.

The previous settlement sheet disclosed that the corporation of Rogers received more money from the inheritance tax than it received during the entire year from direct tax collection. Under the present settlement, however, neither Rogers or Middleton township shared in the distribution.

In all $3,000 in purses will be offered. The race money is to be divided with 50 percent to the winner, 25 percent to second place, 15 percent to third place and 10 percent to fourth place, without deductions to money winners. Under the rules this year all horses must be declared, the driver named, and the entrance fee of $10 paid before 6 o'clock the evening preceding the race. Salem Transcript Filed.

The transcript in the case of the Walton School of Commerce, Chicago, Ill., tried in the court of Justice Bonsall at Salem, against Michael Hoprick has been filed in common pleas court, an appeal having been taken by the defendant.

Hoprick, who is unable to read or write English, has his name attached to a contract, which is in the form of a note, to take a correspondence course of study, and he claims the signature was obtained by fraud. The case was tried to a jury Aug. 6 and a verdict for the plaintiff for $222 was rendered.

An application has been filed with the Public Utilities Commission at Columbus by the Canton-East Liverpool Coach company for permission to alter its schedule. It is said the intent of the company is to increase its service between the two cities, effective October 2. Suit Over Oil and Gas Lease.

Cloid Benner and Ellen Benner have filed an action in common pleas court against Harry E. Tope of Steubenville and the Berea Oil company, of which J. E. Wright, of Steubenville, is president, to have an oil and gas lease declared null and void.

The plaintiffs, through their counsel, C. C. Connell, of Lisbon, have set up the claim that the lease given May 28, 1917, and which expired May 28, 1922, has been refused cancellation. The lease covered 20 acres of land in section 21, Knox township.

TAX RECEIPTS HIT $2,780,000

Valuations in County More Than Doubled in 20 Years.

Tax valuations in Columbiana county have practically more than doubled during the last 20 years, according to County Treasurer Jo Pike.

The June tax settlement sheet is now being prepared, and the December and June collection reveal the receipt of more than $2,780,000.

When Miss Pike entered the treasurer's office as a clerk the annual collection was around $1,000,000.

While there has been a steady growth in the county during the last decade, councils of the various corporations, township trustees and boards of education have been receiving greater funds because of local growth.

Collection of special assessments this year has resulted in various districts receiving additional funds.

The June settlement sheet is expected to be completed within the next two weeks.

Licensed to Wed.

A marriage license has been issued to H. N. Herrington of East Palestine, employed as a pottery worker, and Lela Harding of East Palestine, a widow, and formerly residing at Rogers.

Only 1,364 affidavits were filed during August, which was the lowest month of the year. Fees charged totalled $341.

INHERITANCE TAX DISBURSED

East Liverpool, With $18,741.80, Tops County List.

East Liverpool corporation received more money from the last inheritance tax settlement than any other taxing district in the county, it was announced today by County Auditor Elmer E. Walker. Lisbon was second, with Washingtonville in last place.

Warrants are now being forwarded the county corporations.

Amounts to be paid are as follows:

State of Ohio	$19,285.21
Center township	85.78
Fairfield township	81.83
West township	15.36
Knox township	66.96
Elkrun township	35.25
Butler township	45.18
Salem city	528.39
Wellsville city	415.54
East Liverpool city	18,741.80
Columbiana corporation	187.64
Lisbon village	1,126.11
Leetonia corporation	197.63

County fund (probate fee fund)	5.00

The law provides that one half of the inheritance tax received by a municipal corporation shall be credited to the sinking fund and the remainder to the general fund.

The previous settlement sheet disclosed that the corporation of Rogers received more money from the inheritance tax than it received during the entire year from direct tax collection. Under the present settlement, however, neither Rogers or Middleton township shared in the distribution.

Potters End Series With Midland Stars; Cop Three Straight

Decisive Conquest is Registered as Pennsylvanians Fall Beneath 6 to 1 Lacing; Parsons and McMath Lead Clubbers.

THE five-game Midland-East Liverpool baseball series is over as a result of the Ceramic City Club's decisive 6 to 1 conquest over the Pennsylvanians yesterday afternoon at Smith field in the third tilt of the layout. The Midland club appeared regularly in each of the three contests and aside from that furnished little opposition.

Parsons and McMath led the Potters in the bat attack with two solid blows apiece during the six innings of play. "Pars" crashed out a double and a single and McMath punched out a triple and a double.

Mundy pitched great ball, being especially strong in the pinches.

The visitors scored their lone tally in the first frame on a single by Wilson who finished on wide throws by Eddie Bayley and Herbert.

McMath's triple and a sacrifice fly by Bayley accounted for East Liverpool's run that tied the count in the same inning. Two more runners cross the plate in the third on a single by Mundy and doubles by Parsons and McMath.

By way of making it decisive, the Potters tacked on three more in the fifth. Parsons singled. Bailey walked and stole second as Parsons scampered to the hot corner. Both finished on Herbert's sizzling single. Herbert went to second on the play to the plate and scored when Andrews booted McShane's grounder.

Midland threatened in the sixth, with two down, when Thompson and Andrews singled and O'Neil was hit, filling the bases. Mundy tightened up, however, and fanned Yocum, a pinch hitter.

CHAMP LAUGHS AT BRIBE RUMOR

"$100,000 to Throw Decision" Yarn Springs Up Again.

By George Barry.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—A story eddied and whirled around in the ocean breezes here today which goeth like this:

"A man (presumably bold and very, very bad) who has bet a lot of money on Gene Tunney, is sprinkling around about $100,000 worth of "sugar" in Philadelphia so as to cinch the decision and the championship for his man."

When Dempsey was told of this, the champion laughed.

"Well, well, well," he commenced, "it's beginning to sound like the old days. I knew somebody would dig up a yarn like that sooner or later. They always do. And the figure is about the same. When I mixed it with Bill Brennan in New York somebody was going to get 100,000 nice beautiful dollars for throwing the decision to Bill. But I happened to win that one.

"And when I fought Georges Carpentier the same old rumor was circulated. Georges was going to win by hook or crook, it was said. But I happened to win that one.

"Out in Montana it was a bit different. I heard the rumor there that somebody was going to threaten to shoot Jim Dougherty's adam's apple if he didn't award the title in one way or another to Tommy Gibbons. And there was some money talk. Jim said so himself the other day. Talked about somebody offering him a "fabulous sum" to throw the decision to Tommy. Jim didn't give the exact figures, but I imagine it was the same old $100,000.

"And now its bumping around again, this $100,000 talk. What do I think of it? Well, I don't think there's enough money in the entire state of New York, not merely the city, where this 'heavy bettor' is supposed to be, to contaminate a single judge or referee or official identified with the Pennsylvania state athletic commission."

Gene Normile, who manages Dempsey, shook off 18 pounds as the result of a laughing fit that came when he heard the wild rumor.

"That 'bribe' story is the world's champion bunk," he said.

BETHANY GRID SQUAD AT WORK

Nuss Faces Job in Replacing Several Star Veterans.

BETHANY, W. Va., Sept. 9.—With over thirty-five candidates in camp the football season is officially under way at Bethany college. Coach Furman Nuss is busy drilling his men in all kinds of manoeuvers which will test their ability in the various departments of football. After this morning's practice he was greatly encouraged because he felt that among his new men has has some very promising material. From the looks of things at this early date these new men may give some of the veterans a race for their positions.

The Bison mentor faces the difficult task of replacing several good veterans. Loppacker, Dimick, Barlow, Rhine, Serafini, and Scott of last year's first string men will be lost to the squad, this year. Loppacker graduated last June, Barlow and Dimick have entered law schools, and Rhine, Serafini, and Scott are going to other colleges for special study. All of these men were valuable to the team and will be difficult to replace.

The position at end will be difficult to fill as will halfback position held by Loppacker. "Hump" Neel, Mingo speed demon will probably snatch one of the halves without a struggle. The other half will be filled by "Bobby" Stobbs of Wheeling who was a former Linsly star. Captain Carey at quarter and Hamill or Fiers at full back will complete a formidable backfield.

The players are in camp at the college. Practice is being held twice a day on the old Bethany athletic field. The men are sleeping in North Cochran Hall the men's dromitory and are eating at Gordon's Inn.

TWO BILLS CARRY U. S. NET HONOR

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—Two Bills of large and smal physical denominations, but almost of a parity in skill and determination again will carry the honor of America out on the tennis courts this afternoon for the annual defense of the cherished Davis cup. The Bills in question were none other than Tilden and Johnson, ranking with Brookes and Wilding and the Doherty brothers as the most famouse pairs in tennis history, and that being the case, the general expectancy was that France, the official challenging nation, must pay the freight at the end of the three day test.

Jack Reads no Mail Except Lines From Wife and His "Ma"

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—About 200 letters and at least 50 telegrams arrive here daily for Jack Dempsey but he receives and reads none except those from his wife and mother. Even newspapers are taboo.

"I'm handling all the telegrams and letters for Jack these days," said Gene Normile, his manager. "The others will await answering by Jack himself until the fight is over.

"It struck me that no good could be accomplished for him to read and worry about so much mail during his training session."

PIRATES' FLAG HOPES RENEWED

Double Victory Over Reds May Prove Good Tonic.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Pittsburgh's pennant chances were considerably brighter today as a result of the double defeat which the world's champions administered to the Reds yesterday. The Pirates are now only half a game behind the Reds, who trail the Cardinals by three games.

The Corsairs will play a doubleheader with the Cubs today while St. Louis and Cincinnati are idle.

The Yankees lost yesterday but increased their advantage as the Indians also were defeated. If the Yanks win only half of their remaining 18 games, Cleveland must capture 17 out of 18 to finish in front.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.

Maker of 51 Golf Champions. "Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In making all iron shots the best practice is to have the blade slightly opened as it is addressed back of the ball. That is, with the ball lying off the left instead and the hands slightly ahead of the ball, the sole or bottom of the clubhead would make a line (D-C) running slightly diagonally across the direction line (A-B). In the forward swing, then, the blade will be square when it meets the ball, assuming that the wrists throw the clubhead into and through the ball. If you so place the blade and then slice it, indicates you are quitting with the wrists near the ball or else dropping the right shoulder as you go forward. Hit down onto the ball and throw the blade through it—and outward across it.

The Giants and the Braves again split a double bill, New York winning the opener, 5 to 1, and Boston copping the nightcap, 4 to 2.

Linemen Take Orders From Cox; Pitt Star Drills Ball Toters

Handicapped by Lack of Space, Candidates go Through Preliminary Maneuvers; Stockdale and McKeever are Lost to Team.

ALTHOUGH a little early to make selections here and there for probable jobs on the Blue and White grid team, Head Coach George Kidder and his assistants, William Cox and Carl McCutcheon, feel anything but pessimistic as drill sessions get under way at City Park with a squad of more than 40 candidates in action.

Enough veterans to form the backbone of a robust eleven, speed and agility, as well as intelligence, and above all sufficient bulk on both line and backfield to stand a lot of pounding—this should be sufficient to encourage any coach.

The chief drawback at the present moment is lack of practice room. Patterson Field has become a veritable quagmire within the last week and as a result the squad has been compelled to take its daily dozen at City Park, a poor substitute. The squad is hampered by lack of space and must confine its activities to a small range scale.

The squad lost two men yesterday who probably could have been used when Stockdale, potential ball toter, and McKeever, who stood excellent chances of landing an end berth, withdrew. Stockdale is leaving school and McKeever lacks parental consent.

Football equipment has been issued to approximately 40 youths which, by the way, is one of the most representative outfits in years. Experiments are under way with some of the new skeleton pants material designed for wet weather use.

A short scrimmage session followed last night's signal drill, with McCutcheon directing backs in the end runs and off tackle thrusts and Cox pulling the guards out of the line to form interference for flank plays. A chalk talk by McCutcheon at the gymnasium ended the day.

Gene Doesn't Want Title On Foul And Thinks Referee Will Be Fair

By Davis J. Walsh.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—Wall Street may figure that Jack Dempsey is worth every bit of two dollars against one as a betting proposition. Atlantic City, or at least the boxing intelligentsia continguous thereto, may think the champion is absolutely "in." But this opinion is not altogether unanimous and Gene Tunney proved it today by picking himself to win the "duke," so-called, on the night of September 23.

The boy friend, of course, has done this before but never was he so convincing as he was this morning as he professed not the slightest interest in the identity of the referee or in the story that Dempsey is using the illegal "rabbit-punch" not a little in his training workouts.

"I'm going to win this fight for myself and no other man, not even Dempsey nor the referee is going to do it for me," said Tunney in tones that were just a trifle testy. "Any referee that is named is bound to give both of us a fair shake. As for Dempsey, he will enter the ring fully aware of the fact that he must abide by the rules.

Doesn't Want It On Foul.

"Understand me, I don't want the title on a foul and I hardly figure on getting it that way. Jack has never been disqualified for fouling, as far as I know, and neither have I. We're simply going in there and slug each other until one of us drops. That one won't be me. You can't beat a man who refuses to be beaten."

It is barely possible, of course, that Mr. Tunney may be just a bit biased on this question and the same inference may be leveled at the opinions held by Lou Fink, his trainer, and Bud Gorman, his sparring-partner-in-chief. They apparently can't see how the challenger can go wrong.

"Tunney has everything," Fink said. "He has youth, speed, experience, condition and gameness. Dempsey never has fought a man who had all of these things at once and he's going to notice the difference right away. Tunney, in my opinion, is the gamest man in the ring today. That statement may surprise some of the wisecrackers but I know it to be true."

Gorman's contribution to the general fund of information, alleged and otherwise, was the statement that he intended "to send in" all the money he can muster on the challenger.

"I never bet on a fight before but I'm not going to pass up this chance," quoth Bud. "Knowing what I know about Tunney, those odds look very good to me."

Unfortunately the writer could only hear Tunney fight this fight. I couldn't see him do it, because like Dempsey, the challenger yesterday declared a moratorium on boxing and permitted a shave and a haircut to answer the purpose of a work out. He looked very fit, at that.

Off-hand, it is impossible to say whether he is in better condition than Dempsey. I doubt if any man could be that. As a matter of fact, it is possible that the challenger is too good at this stage of the proceedings, although to suggest anything of the sort undobutedly would ruffle the young man's serenity. He is so close to the edge of condition that a chance word is likely to lash him into a lather

Fight Results

AT ST. JOHN, N. B. — George Fifield, Toronto welterweight, knocked out Humbert Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., in the sixth round.

AT TACOMA BOWL, DAYTON, Kentucky.—Vincent Hambright, Filipino slugging artist, knocked out Blockie Richards, Dayton, Ohio, just 45 seconds after the opening gong for a ten round battle.

Fighting with their backs to the wall, the Pirates crushed the Reds in both games of a twin bill by scores of 6 to 1 and 11 to 0. Meadows and Hill pitched airtight ball while Fred Brickell, 19-year-old Kansas high school boy, who is playing left field for the Pirates, got three hits in each game.

Wiltse of the Red Sox held the Yankees to five hits and beat them, 5 to 2, ending Boston's losing streak of seventeen straight. Rogers Hornsby and seven other members of the Cardinals watched the game but saw nothing to cause them any great worry.

CHAMP LAUGHS AT BRIBE RUMOR

"$100,000 to Throw Decision" Yarn Springs Up Again.

By George Barry.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—A story eddied and whirled around in the ocean breezes here today which goeth like this:

"A man (presumably bold and very, very bad) who has bet a lot of money on Gene Tunney, is sprinkling around about $100,000 worth of "sugar" in Philadelphia so as to cinch the decision and the championship for his man."

When Dempsey was told of this, the champion laughed.

"Well, well, well," he commenced, "it's beginning to sound like the old days. I knew somebody would dig up a yarn like that sooner or later. They always do. And the figure is about the same. When I mixed it with Bill Brennan in New York somebody was going to get 100,000 nice beautiful dollars for throwing the decision to Bill. But I happened to win that one.

"And when I fought Georges Carpentier the same old rumor was circulated. Georges was going to win by hook or crook, it was said. But I happened to win that one.

"Out in Montana it was a bit different. I heard the rumor there that somebody was going to threaten to shoot Jim Dougherty's adam's apple if he didn't award the title in one way or another to Tommy Gibbons. And there was some money talk. Jim said so himself the other day. Talked about somebody offering him a "fabulous sum" to throw the decision to Tommy. Jim didn't give the exact figures, but I imagine it was the same old $100,000.

"And now its bumping around again, this $100,000 talk. What do I think of it? Well, I don't think there's enough money in the entire state of New York, not merely the city, where this 'heavy bettor' is supposed to be, to contaminate a single judge or referee or official identified with the Pennsylvania state athletic commission."

Gene Normile, who manages Dempsey, shook off 18 pounds as the result of a laughing fit that came when he heard the wild rumor.

"That 'bribe' story is the world's champion bunk," he said.

BETHANY GRID SQUAD AT WORK

Nuss Faces Job in Replacing Several Star Veterans.

BETHANY, W. Va., Sept. 9.—With over thirty-five candidates in camp the football season is officially under way at Bethany college. Coach Furman Nuss is busy drilling his men in all kinds of manoeuvers which will test their ability in the various departments of football. After this morning's practice he was greatly encouraged because he felt that among his new men has has some very promising material. From the looks of things at this early date these new men may give some of the veterans a race for their positions.

The Bison mentor faces the difficult task of replacing several good veterans. Loppacker, Dimick, Barlow, Rhine, Serafini, and Scott of last year's first string men will be lost to the squad, this year. Loppacker graduated last June, Barlow and Dimick have entered law schools, and Rhine, Serafini, and Scott are going to other colleges for special study. All of these men were valuable to the team and will be difficult to replace.

The position at end will be difficult to fill as will halfback position held by Loppacker. "Hump" Neel, Mingo speed demon will probably snatch one of the halves without a struggle. The other half will be filled by "Bobby" Stobbs of Wheeling who was a former Linsly star. Captain Carey at quarter and Hamill or Fiers at fullback will complete a formidable backfield.

The players are in camp at the college. Practice is being held twice a day on the old Bethany athletic field. The men are sleeping in North Cochran Hall the men's dromitory and are eating at Gordon's Inn.

TWO BILLS CARRY U. S. NET HONOR

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9—Two Bills of large and smal physical denominations, but almost of a parity in skill and determination again will carry the honor of America out on the tennis courts this afternoon for the annual defense of the cherished Davis cup. The Bills in question were none other than Tilden and Johnson, ranking with Brookes and Wilding and the Doherty brothers as the most famouse pairs in tennis history, and that being the case, the general expectancy was that France, the official challenging nation, must pay the freight at the end of the three day test.

Jack Reads no Mail Except Lines From Wife and His "Ma"

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Sept. 9.—About 200 letters and at least 50 telegrams arrive here daily for Jack Dempsey but he receives and reads none except those from his wife and mother. Even newspapers are taboo.

"I'm handling all the telegrams and letters for Jack these days," said Gene Normile, his manager. "The others will await answering by Jack himself until the fight is over.

"It struck me that no good could be accomplished for him to read and worry about so much mail during his training session."

PIRATES' FLAG HOPES RENEWED

Double Victory Over Reds May Prove Good Tonic.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—Pittsburgh's pennant chances were considerably brighter today as a result of the double defeat which the world's champions administered to the Reds yesterday. The Pirates are now only half a game behind the Reds, who trail the Cardinals by three games.

The Corsairs will play a doubleheader with the Cubs today while St. Louis and Cincinnati are idle.

The Yankees lost yesterday but increased their advantage as the Indians also were defeated. If the Yanks win only half of their remaining 18 games, Cleveland must capture 17 out of 18 to finish in front.

INSIDE GOLF

By CHESTER HORTON.
Maker of 51 Golf Champions.
"Golf's most successful teacher," says "Chick" Evans.

In making all iron shots the best practice is to have the blade slightly opened as it is addressed back of the ball. That is, with the ball lying off the left instead and the hands slightly ahead of the ball, the sole or bottom of the clubhead would make a line (D-C) running slightly diagonally across the direction line (A-B). In the forward swing, then, the blade will be square when it meets the ball, assuming that the wrists throw the clubhead into and through the ball. If you so place the blade and then slice it, indicates you are quitting with the wrists near the ball or else dropping the right shoulder as you go forward. Hit down onto the ball and throw the blade through it—and outward across it.

The Giants and the Braves again split a double bill, New York winning the opener, 5 to 1, and Boston copping the nightcap, 4 to 2.

Linemen Take Orders From Cox; Pitt Star Drills Ball Toters

Handicapped by Lack of Space, Candidates go Through Preliminary Maneuvers; Stockdale and McKeever are Lost to Team.

ALTHOUGH a little early to make selections here and there for probable jobs on the Blue and White grid team, Head Coach George Kidder and his assistants, William Cox and Carl McCutcheon, feel anything but pessimistic as drill sessions get under way at City Park with a squad of more than 40 candidates in action.

Enough veterans to form the backbone of a robust eleven, speed and agility, as well as intelligence, and above all sufficient bulk on both line and backfield to stand a lot of pounding—this should be sufficient to encourage any coach.

The chief drawback at the present moment is lack of practice room. Patterson Field has become a veritable quagmire within the last week and as a result the squad has been compelled to take its daily dozen at City Park, a poor substitute. The squad is hampered by lack of space and must confine its activities to a small range scale.

The squad lost two men yesterday who probably could have been used when Stockdale, potential ball toter, and McKeever, who stood excellent chances of landing an end berth, withdrew. Stockdale is leaving school and McKeever lacks parental consent.

Football equipment has been issued to approximately 40 youths which, by the way, is one of the most representative outfits in years. Experiments are under way with some of the new skeleton pants material designed for wet weather use.

A short scrimmage session followed last night's signal drill, with McCutcheon directing backs in the end runs and off tackle thrusts and Cox pulling the guards out of the line to form interference for flank plays. A chalk talk by McCutcheon at the gymnasium ended the day.

Gene Doesn't Want Title On Foul And Thinks Referee Will Be Fair

By Davis J. Walsh.

STROUDSBURG, Pa., Sept. 9.—Wall Street may figure that Jack Dempsey is worth every bit of two dollars against one as a betting proposition. Atlantic City, or at least the boxing intelligentsia contiguous thereto, may think the champion is absolutely "in." But this opinion is not altogether unanimous and Gene Tunney proved it today by picking himself to win the "duke," so-called, on the night of September 23.

The boy friend, of course, has done this before but never was he so convincing as he was this morning as he professed not the slightest interest in the identity of the referee or in the story that Dempsey is using the illegal "rabbit-punch" not a little in his training workouts.

"I'm going to win this fight for myself and no other man, not even Dempsey nor the referee is going to do it for me," said Tunney in tones that were just a trifle testy. "Any referee that is named is bound to give both of us a fair shake. As for Dempsey, he will enter the ring fully aware of the fact that he must abide by the rules.

Doesn't Want It On Foul.

"Understand me, I don't want the title on a foul and I hardly figure on getting it that way. Jack has never been disqualified for fouling, as far as I know, and neither have I. We're simply going in there and slug each other until one of us drops. That one won't be me. You can't beat a man who refuses to be beaten."

It is barely possible, of course, that Mr. Tunney may be just a bit biased on this question and the same inference may be leveled at the opinions held by Lou Fink, his trainer, and Bud Gorman, his sparring-partner-in-chief. They apparently can't see how the challenger can go wrong.

"Tunney has everything," Fink said. "He has youth, speed, experience, condition and gameness. Dempsey never has fought a man who had all of these things at once and he's going to notice the difference right away. Tunney, in my opinion, is the gamest man in the ring today. That statement may surprise some of the wisecrackers but I know it to be true."

Gorman's contribution to the general fund of information, alleged and otherwise, was the statement that he intended "to send in" all the money he can muster on the challenger.

"I never bet on a fight before but I'm not going to pass up this chance," quoth Bud. "Knowing what I know about Tunney, those odds look very good to me."

Unfortunately the writer could only hear Tunney fight this fight. I couldn't see him do it, because like Dempsey, the challenger yesterday declared a moratorium on boxing and permitted a shave and a haircut to answer the purpose of a work out. He looked very fit, at that.

Off-hand, it is impossible to say whether he is in better condition than Dempsey. I doubt if any man could be that. As a matter of fact, it is possible that the challenger is too good at this stage of the proceedings, although to suggest anything of the sort undobutedly would ruffle the young man's serenity. He is so close to the edge of condition that a chance word is likely to lash him into a lather

Fight Results

AT ST. JOHN, N. B. — George Fifield, Toronto welterweight, knocked out Humbert Brady, Syracuse, N. Y., in the sixth round.

AT TACOMA BOWL, DAYTON, Kentucky.—Vincent Hambright, Filipino slugging artist, knocked out Blockie Richards, Dayton, Ohio, just 45 seconds after the opening gong for a ten round battle.

Fighting with their backs to the wall, the Pirates crushed the Reds in both games of a twin bill by scores of 6 to 1 and 11 to 0. Meadows and Hill pitched airtight ball while Fred Brickell, 19-year-old Kansas high school boy, who is playing left field for the Pirates, got three hits in each game.

Wiltse of the Red Sox held the Yankees to five hits and beat them, 5 to 2, ending Boston's losing streak of seventeen straight. Rogers Hornsby and seven other members of the Cardinals watched the game but saw nothing to cause them any great worry.

FULTZ CASE COSTS HEAVY

Court Expenses May Set New Record for County.

Although the court costs in the appeal of John H. Fultz from the civil service commission of Wellsville have not been computed entirely by Clerk Frank Ballantine, it is declared by court attaches that the cost bill will be one of the heaviest ever recorded in the county, murder cases not being excepted.

In addition to counsel fees, there were approximately 250 witnesses called to testify in this case, and while not all were examined their appearance in court was made a matter of entry on the records of the clerk.

Preparation of the transcript in this case by the court reporter, Miss Alice Glenn, would prove a rather costly item. This record, should it be ordered prepared, will take in four days of testimony, and may form a book of 500 pages.

Witness fees and mileage will increase the bill. There were some volunteer witnesses placed on the stand no costs have been allowed in these few instances.

APPEAL MOVE UP TO SOLONS

Fultz Trial May be Council Topic Tonight.

With the expectation of reaching a decision on whether to authorize an appeal from the decision of common pleas court in the John Fultz removal fight, city council will hold an adjourned session tonight in city hall.

Judge W. H. Spence yesterday overruled the city's motion for a new trial and the appeal to higher court is the next step.

Solons, in a 40-minute caucus session prior to their regular meeting Tuesday evening, were unable to reach an agreement on the appeal move, and decided to adjourn until tonight to consider the problem further.

Members of the club will be accompanied by their wives and husbands. Assembling at 1:30 o'clock at the Carnegie library, Ninth and Main street, the members will make the trip in automobiles.

Basket supper will be served. Games and other outdoor diversions will feature the afternoon hours.

FIGURES RATE ON BOND ISSUE

Auditor Prepares Table Showing Cost to Taxpayers.

Cost of the proposed $45,000 bond issue which will be submitted to voters at the November election is shown in figures tabulated by City Auditor Fred Eckfeld, the initial year's rate being placed at 65 cents on the thousand.

Through the bond issue the city hopes to purchase a $12,500 combination fire truck and pumper; spend $2,500 in needed repairs to the city hall building; construct a Seventeenth street sewer at a cost of $24,000; make sewer improvements in Thirteenth street at a cost of $1,500; and at Twentieth street at a cost of $5,000.

It will cost taxpayers 65 cents on the thousand the first year. The second year it will be 63 cents and the third year 61 when the $1,500 section of the issue will be dropped.

The fourth year, then, the rate will fall to 54 cents and the fifth year to 52 when the $5,000 and $2,500 portions will be eliminated.

The rate would be 35 cents the sixth year and decrease a cent a year until 31 cents in the tenth year when $12,500 comes off. From then on, the rate, after a drop to 17 cents, decreases a half-cent annually.

Auditor Eckfeld has compiled a brief table in connection with data on the bond issue, of figures, in response to numerous requests, to show "where the city's money goes."

The figures follow:

Haskin's Letter

the United States, she has nearly one-sixth as much railway line. Two transcontinental systems go from coast to coast.

This railroad achievement may be regarded as espcially notable because there are very extensives stretches of territory which still are wilderness where no freight traffic can be picked up, where local passenger traffic is conspicuously absent, and where there are no towns. Nevertheless, the great continent has been twice bridged by rails and regular service is maintained.

The romance of Canada is that so few people—no more for the whole vast Dominion than there are in New York State—have achieved so great a development. Canada produces 90 per cent of the world's cobalt, 88 per cent of the world's asbestos, and 80 per cent of the world's nickel. Eminence if not pre-eminence in other production only awaits more population and investment. Power resources are utterly immeasurable.

Immigration is going on on a fairly large scale although less by a good deal than formely. Immigration from Great Britain dropped from 138,000 in 1912 to only 53,000 in 1925. Immigration from United States dropped from 134,000 in 1912 to only 16,000 in 1925. Preliminary figures for 1926 indicate considerably larger figures. Immigration from all other countries dropped from 82,000 in 1912 to 42,000 in 1925.

One factor that aids in attracting American industry and capital to Canada is that both countries use the dollar as the standard of currency. Also, Canada now has returned to the gold standard, is an absolute free gold market, and gold moves unhindered back and forth across the border as the requirements of commercial dictate. The lack of necessity to change dollars into pounds sterling or any other currency unit facilitates transactions and every year a large volume of business is transacted with this country; a smaller with England.

The American tourist traffic has grown to tremendous proportions. Just how far prohibition in the United States has contributed to the increase in visitors from the United States may be a matter of personal opinion. Aside, however, from the fact that Canada is not dry, the Dominion offers such picturesque places as the ancient cities of Quebec and Montreal, both rich in historical associations, the Canadian Rockies, innumerable lakes of rare beauty, and many other tourist-attracting features. Further, it is a sportman's paradise.

FULTZ CASE COSTS HEAVY

Court Expenses May Set New Record for County.

Although the court costs in the appeal of John H. Fultz from the civil service commission of Wellsville have not been computed entirely by Clerk Frank Ballantine, it is declared by court attaches that the cost bill will be one of the heaviest ever recorded in the county, murder cases not being excepted.

In addition to counsel fees, there were approximately 250 witnesses called to testify in this case, and while not all were examined their appearance in court was made a matter of entry on the records of the clerk.

Preparation of the transcript in this case by the court reporter, Miss Alice Glenn, would prove a rather costly item. This record, should it be ordered prepared, will take in four days of testimony, and may form a book of 500 pages.

Witness fees and mileage will increase the bill. There were some volunteer witnesses placed on the stand no costs have been allowed in these few instances.

APPEAL MOVE UP TO SOLONS

Fultz Trial May be Council Topic Tonight.

With the expectation of reaching a decision on whether to authorize an appeal from the decision of common pleas court in the John Fultz removal fight, city council will hold an adjourned session tonight in city hall.

Judge W. H. Spence yesterday overruled the city's motion for a new trial and the appeal to higher court is the next step.

Solons, in a 40-minute caucus session prior to their regular meeting Tuesday evening, were unable to reach an agreement on the appeal move, and decided to adjourn until tonight to consider the problem further.

MISSION MEET AT U. P. CHURCH

The monthly meeting of the Woman's Missionary society of the United Presbyterian church will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30 o'clock in the church parlors.

Mrs. Hobson, of Richmond, Jefferson county, the presbyterial delegate to the national convention, will submit her report.

A social hour will follow the business session.

PICNIC PLANNED BY MUSIC CLUB

Arrangements are nearing completion for the picnic to be held Saturday afternoon by members of the Wellsville Music club at Beaver Forks farm, summer home of Attorney and Mrs. W. F. Lones.

Members of the club will be accompanied by their wives and husbands. Assembling at 1:30 o'clock at the Carnegie library, Ninth and Main street, the members will make the trip in automobiles.

Basket supper will be served. Games and other outdoor diversions will feature the afternoon hours.

FIGURES RATE ON BOND ISSUE

Auditor Prepares Table Showing Cost to Taxpayers.

Cost of the proposed $45,000 bond issue which will be submitted to voters at the November election is shown in figures tabulated by City Auditor Fred Eckfeld, the initial year's rate being placed at 65 cents on the thousand.

Through the bond issue the city hopes to purchase a $12,500 combination fire truck and pumper; spend $2,500 in needed repairs to the city hall building; construct a Seventeenth street sewer at a cost of $24,000; make sewer improvements in Thirteenth street at a cost of $1,500; and at Twentieth street at a cost of $5,000.

It will cost taxpayers 65 cents on the thousand the first year. The second year it will be 63 cents and the third year 61 when the $1,500 section of the issue will be dropped.

The fourth year, then, the rate will fall to 54 cents and the fifth year to 52 when the $5,000 and $2,500 portions will be eliminated.

The rate would be 35 cents the sixth year and decrease a cent a year until 31 cents in the tenth year when $12,500 comes off. From then on, the rate, after a drop to 17 cents, decreases a half-cent annually.

Auditor Eckfeld has compiled a brief table in connection with data on the bond issue, of figures, in response to numerous requests, to show "where the city's money goes."

The figures follow:

Year 1924.
Received from taxes—$75,938.43.
To sinking fund—$64,306.60.
Left for operation—$11,631.83.

Year 1926, up to Sept. 1.

To sinking fund—$51,716.75.
Bonds redeemed—$18,100.

Haskin's Letter

the United States, she has nearly one-sixth as much railway line. Two transcontinental systems go from coast to coast.

This railroad achievement may be regarded as espcially notable because there are very extensives stretches of territory which still are wilderness where no freight traffic can be picked up, where local passenger traffic is conspicuously absent, and where there are no towns. Nevertheless, the great continent has been twice bridged by rails and regular service is maintained.

The romance of Canada is that so few people—no more for the whole vast Dominion than there are in New York State—have achieved so great a development. Canada produces 90 per cent of the world's cobalt, 88 per cent of the world's asbestos, and 80 per cent of the world's nickel. Eminence if not pre-eminence in other production only awaits more population and investment. Power resources are utterly immeasurable.

Immigration is going on on a fairly large scale although less by a good deal than formely. Immigration from Great Britain dropped from 138,000 in 1912 to only 53,000 in 1925. Immigration from United States dropped from 134,000 in 1912 to only 16,000 in 1925. Preliminary figures for 1926 indicate considerably larger figures. Immigration from all other countries dropped from 82,000 in 1912 to 42,000 in 1925.

One factor that aids in attracting American industry and capital to Canada is that both countries use the dollar as the standard of currency. Also, Canada now has returned to the gold standard, is an absolute free gold market, and gold moves unhindered back and forth across the border as the requirements of commercial dictate. The lack of necessity to change dollars into pounds sterling or any other currency unit facilitates transactions and every year a large volume of business is transacted with this country; a smaller with England.

The American tourist traffic has grown to tremendous proportions. Just how far prohibition in the United States has contributed to the increase in visitors from the United States may be a matter of personal opinion. Aside, however, from the fact that Canada is not dry, the Dominion offers such picturesque places as the ancient cities of Quebec and Montreal, both rich in historical associations, the Canadian Rockies, innumerable lakes of rare beauty, and many other tourist-attracting features. Further, it is a sportman's paradise.
